Brothers Says Not Guilty In Lingle Crime

Witnesses To Slaying Are Sprinkled In Court Room Crowd

NEW DETAILS ARE BEING REVEALED

Charge Brothers Implicated In Third Killing In St. Louis, Mo.

(BULLETIN)

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—As several witnesses to the murder of Alfred "Jake" Lingle looked on, unbeknownst to him, Leo V. Brothers entered a mute plea of "not guilty" on his arraignment here today.

The case was assigned to Judge John Drysdale for trial, and Special Prosecutor Charles F. Rathbun announced he would go before that judge, probably tomorrow, and demand immediate trial.

Witnesses in Court.

Witnesses, who had no opportunity previously to view the alleged killer of Lingle, were distributed among the spectators who jammed the courtroom as the prisoner stood silent during the arraignment.

The arraignment brought a momentary stop to the strenuous activities of defense attorneys and of the "board of strategy" in the Lingle case which is in charge of the prosecution.

Meanwhile, Rathbun and Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, have produced new developments in the case.

After a several day check-up at St. Louis, they reported today that Brothers was implicated in a third killing, beside the Lingle crime, and the shooting in July, 1929, of John De Blasi, St. Louis taxi cab chauffeur.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Between the snow storm, the icy street and the stop light the cars coming down East street at North Tuesday evening had a wonderful time skidding around that corner. Pa New saw three cars turn completely around and head back in the direction they were coming from. Today the roads will be in a treacherous condition and chains are more than essential to safe driving.

Tentative plans calling for the incorporation of Lawrence and Beaver counties in a new congressional district, as a result of the 1930 census figures has created interest here. It would make both the state senatorial and congressional districts embrace the same counties, and would probably result in a plan whereby one county had the state senator while the other had the congressman.

One of the heaviest falls of snow of the season occurred last night, which was of brief duration however. Another steady fall set in this morning, and real winter is back with us again.

Pa New saw several motorists get fooled on the Mercer street hill last evening. They started up the hill in high and then attempted to shift gears when near the top. At one time, there were three cars stalled on the hill. One was able to hold his car while he put on chains, but the other two had to back down the hill. Motorists who went into second gear at the bottom of the hill were able to make the grade all right.

Pa New observed a 1931 Kansas license plate on a car yesterday afternoon. It was dark green with white letters. The plates are rather narrow, compared to Pennsylvania plates.

It's rather amusing to see the efforts being made by some of the metropolitan wet press to twist the Wickersham committee report around to make it look like a favorable report for repeal of prohibition. It's rather a hard job when the committee in its first statement

Constitutionality Of 18th Amendment Is Argued In High Court

Case Reaches Supreme Court On Government's Appeal From Clark's Decision

Few Words By High Tribunal Could Wipe Out Controversial Amendment

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The decision of Federal Judge Clark of New Jersey, declaring the eighteenth amendment unconstitutional was ridiculed by Solicitor-General Thacher in opening oral arguments in the government's appeal in the Supreme Court this afternoon.

The tiny court room was crowded at the opening and members of the court listened closely.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Constitutionality of the 18th amendment was challenged in the supreme court again today, nearly 11 years after the nation's high tribunal declared it the law of the land.

The case reached the high court on the government's appeal from the decision of Federal Judge Clark of New Jersey declaring the prohibition amendment had been improperly ratified by state legislatures instead of constitutional conventions.

A few words by the high court would wipe out the controversial amendment, but such a decision apparently is not expected by many lawyers who frequent the court.

Polish College Building Burns

Main Building At Polish College At Cambridge Springs, Destroyed By Fire

LOSS IS SET AT OVER $500,000

(International News Service)
CAMBRIDGE SPRINGS, Pa., Jan. 21.—Charring ruins and smoldering embers were all that remained today to greet students of the Polish National Alliance College when they made their way to the main building of the institution.

Fanned by a brisk wind, fire that broke out in the building, a five story brick and wood structure, swept rapidly through each floor, completely gutting the building.

First estimates of the loss ranged between $500,000 and $650,000. More than 250 students who were quietly attending chapel on the first floor were unaware that the building was afire until they had reached the open.

The students were not told of the blaze and filed out of the building in safety.

WEINGARTNER IS PENALIZED

Support Of Pinchot Candidate Costs Him Committee Chairmanship

As a result of his support of Governor Pinchot's candidacy for president pro tem of the Senate, State Senator George T. Weingartner of the Beaver-Lawrence district was penalized when the committee announcements for the Senate were given out at Harrisburg.

The committee members named by Senator Daix, who was elected as chairman pro tem of the Senate over Pinchot's candidate.

Senator Weingartner, who was chairman of the important committee of law and order in the last session and by the rules of seniority should have retained the position, was demoted to the chairmanship of the unimportant committee on pensions and gratuities as a penalty for his support of Mansfield, the Pinchot candidate for president pro tem.

Ideas Differ Widely On Law Commission Report To President

Consensus of opinion of New Castle people who were interviewed on the Wickersham report this morning, seemed to be that the commission did not discover anything that was not known heretofore, and that they merely leave the solution up to Congress where it always has been.

B. N. Hanlon, secretary of the New Castle Motor club was of the opinion that the problem was not settled by the commission, and that like a majority of other great problems which have come up from time to time, will be widely discussed without any definite action being taken.

The eight great questions which have arisen since 1920 such as the World Court, and the like, have never been definitely settled by the different administrations.

The different newspapers which I have glanced at were not of the same opinion in interpreting the report, some being of the opinion that the report favored a dry interpretation, while others looked at it in a wet light.

Julian M. Vance, clerk at The Castleton, was of the opinion that the commission did not discover anything that was not known heretofore, and was of the opinion that they had merely wasted time and money.

Ray F. Hall, manager of the New Castle Credit Exchange, was of the opinion that the report was too contradictory. On one hand, they made the statement that the law should

Snow Drifts Cover Main County Roads; Plows Are Sent Out

Propelled by a high wind that took on the proportions of an old fashioned blizzard, snow covered county roads and rural lanes with a two-inch blanket this morning and causing numerous drifts Tuesday night and by this morning had put the finishing touches to nearly obliterate familiar road signs.

H. W. Lightner, State Highway Department superintendent in Lawrence and Mercer counties reported from the department branch in the Seventh Ward today that his men were out on the principal county roads clearing snow with plows. Mercer county, too, was reported to have a large snowfall and plows were dispatched to highways in that region.

Lightner reported a snowfall here of about two inches. He added that drifts piled snow over some main roads in Lawrence. He urged motorists to use chains.

POLITICAL ASPECT TO HOOVER'S STATEMENT ON COMMISSION REPORT

President Hoover More Definitely Committed As Dry Than Ever Before

PROHIBITION AGAIN CENTRE OF STAGE

Opinion On Report Of Commission Is Widely Varied In Nation

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Prohibition, attired in the new and confusing patchwork of the Wickersham report, strode to the center of the national stage today with a promise of holding the spotlight for a long time to come.

In the welter of controversy and dispute that has arisen in the wake of the strange report—which presented the curious anomaly of being wet in substance and dry in conclusion—certain developments appeared outstanding and more or less generally admitted. They were:

1. President Hoover has at last taken the plunge and lined up definitely with the dry side of the prohibition controversy a political development of incalculable importance in relation to 1932.

2. There has now been put forward for the first time in ten years a definite plan for overcoming the 18th Amendment, around which it will be possible to rally not only the avowed wets but also a great mass of those who, while opposed to outright repeal of the amendment, nevertheless are dissatisfied with existing conditions and ready for a change.

3. The impetus given prohibition discussion and consideration by the

Lion-Rhinoceros Damage Plane And Injure Aviators

Lion Jumps At Low Flying Filming Expedition Plane, Causing It To Land

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Jan. 21.—A motion picture filming wild animals in Africa by swooping down from above in an airplane and photographing them within a few feet probably lost its opportunity today to "shoot" the best hair raising thriller in a decade.

According to reports to Bzammittag from Arusha, Africa, a lion jumped at the low flying plane of the filming expedition of Eddy Von Gouland and Ernst Udel, badly damaging the wing with its claws. The crippled machine landed safely some distance away, however, and was charged by a rhinoceros.

The animal practically wrecked the plane and injured the crew, but the latter were saved from death by a second plane.

Wickersham Denies Hoover Persuaded Commission Report

Chairman Wickersham Denies That President Forced Commission To Alter Views

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Chairman George W. Wickersham of the law enforcement commission categorically denied today that President Hoover had persuaded or forced the commission to alter its report with respect to a positive recommendation for revision of the 18th amendment. In its report the commission proposed such revision in a qualified form.

"Such a story has absolutely no foundation in fact," the chairman informed International News Service.

At the White House complete silence was observed. It was stated, in reply to inquiries, that the White House would not dignify any rumors, reports or stories affecting the Wickersham report with either confirmation or denial.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—I try to write my little jokes without getting riled up over anything, but tonight I am on the war path.

For the first time in our lifetime our country is in need. Our most respected men are pleading for aid, through our great organization. Congress is at last awakened. Our president's mind is naturally taken up with important problems of immediate aid for his people.

Seven million people's minds are on their next cup of coffee, and what happens?

The prohibition report is turned in. The only possible thing you could think of that we don't need right now outside the Einstein theory is the prohibition theory.

Prohibition — our grand children will be arguing over that, and here we are taking it serious at a time like this.

If we could butter that report and put it between two loaves of bread, it would be welcome none.

What an aid to Arkansas that report will be in this crisis!

Poor Hoover, who somebody does something for him, they do it at the wrong time.

Further Delay In Relief Fund

House Decides To Hold Hearing To Ascertain Needs

SENATORS START FILIBUSTER MOVE

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Further delay in enacting the proposed $25,000,000 federal relief fund was foreseen today when administration leaders decided to hold hearings in the house, after it receives the legislation from the Senate, to learn whether government aid is necessary to relieve national distress.

The interior department appropriation bill, carrying the relief fund, was tied up temporarily in the Senate by a filibuster against an Indian appropriation. Two senators, Thomas (D) of Oklahoma, and King (D) of Utah—fought the bill, because it carried an item appropriating $51,000 of the tribal funds of the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache tribes. The Senators charged this appropriation would bankrupt the tribal funds.

Public Service Commissioners Battle Looming

State Senate Adjourns Till Next Week—Job Assignments Cleaned Up

PINCHOT WILL NOT BE OBSTRUCTED

Governor Pinchot Reiterates Intention Of Abolishing Public Service Commission

By WILLIAM B. BROWN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—With the troublesome matter of committee and job assignments out of the way, quiet reigned in senate circles today, with the upper house of the legislature in adjournment until next week.

But over the chamber today still hung one problem which has been haunting its deliberations—That of action on Samuel Walker, of Butler, and James S. Benn, of Philadelphia, the two Public Service Commissioners appointed in recess by Gov. John S. Fisher.

At the request of Governor Pinchot, all other major Fisher appointments were returned to the executive chamber.

Under a decision of the Supreme Court, a governor cannot recall the nomination of the Public Service Commissioner once it has been made, but possibility of early action on the nominations of Benn and Walker, it was believed today, is unlikely.

Favors New Board

Governor Pinchot has constantly reiterated his intention of replacing the present Public Service Commission with a fair rate board elected by the people. It is believed he will try that first and, failing of accomplishment, will then try to block confirmation of the two commissioners named by his predecessor. Several weeks may elapse however, before that problem takes shape definitely enough to justify senate action, it is thought.

That the senate does not mean to obstruct the executive in the functioning of routine affairs was evinced when the Pinchot nomination for the cabinet were acted upon late yesterday. The nominations were sent to the committee on executive nominations, reported on immediately and approved without a dissenting vote.

POLITICAL ASPECT TO HOOVER'S STATEMENT

Wickersham report insures the issue being carried into the 1932 campaign, probably as the dominant political issue, and if not settled it will be carried forward into 1936. A final and supreme effort is to be made to enforce prohibition in the next two years, in order to make a showing that will convince the doubters that it is possible to obtain some degree of adequate enforcement despite the majority opinion of the Wickersham committee that there is no adequate enforcement now, and that there never has been. Into this effort, the Hoover administration will throw all its resources, and all the money that congress will provide.

Political Aspect
It was the political aspect of the situation, that engaged most attention in Washington today.

On all sides it was accepted that President Hoover has elected to make his stand in 1932 on the dry side of the political river. In his communications to congress, transmitting the Wickersham report, he went further than he has ever gone before in espousing the prohibition end of the controversy.

Praised By Fess

Washington, Jan. 21.—President Hoover was congratulated today on the stand he took in his message to congress, transmitting the Wickersham report, by Senator Fess of Ohio, chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The national chairman called at the White House and personally conveyed his approval in person, although asserting that he did so as a senator rather than as a party chairman.

Senator Fess subscribed to the generally accepted theory that Mr. Hoover by his message has forecast the party course with regard to prohibition in 1932.

HOUSE ADJOURNS, REAL WORK WILL START NEXT WEEK

office to send routine messages to the desk and so the messages will be held until Monday night.

Real Action Next Week.

Next week will probably find the house getting into real action for thus far little has been accomplished aside from the naming of committees and the introduction of 122 bills, some of which carry enough dynamite to cause the average number of explosions in any legislative session.

Bills in possession of the house range anywhere from the repeal of dry laws to the abolition of the electric chair and back again to the repeal of the Sunday blue laws and the placing of signs at points on state highways where cattle are accustomed to cross. Within the memory of old timers here the variety of bills introduced yesterday was never before equalled on the first day for the introduction of proposed laws.

Many of the bills now in the house hopper will get no further than a printing in pink, in which color all bills remain until reported out by some committee. A goodly number of the bills yesterday are admittedly request bills, sponsored by members whose folks back home have asked them to introduce them in the legislature. On the other hand there are some bills which will likely find places in the statutes.

Antagonism Shown.

The list of bills shows early antagonism to the Snyder-Armstrong prohibition enforcement laws enacted during the previous Pinchot administration. A total of four bills carry provisions for repeal. Two bills likewise offer means of surmounting obstacles in the Sunday blue laws.

Fights on both these subjects are forecast for the 1931 session.

Bills making changes in the present public service law and others designed to create a department of public utilities with the public service commission as a branch, also appeared but administration measures on this subject will be presented later. Amendments are also provided for the game and fish laws and, if enacted, leap year would have added significance. One bill provides that do be shot every leap year and deer during the other years.

Other bills would either repeal or reduce inheritance tax, mercantile tax and the tax on bonded indebtedness of municipalities. Also the list already carries a number which make their appearance biennially and among these can be found old age pensions measures, three of which have already been presented. And so the house hopper will continue to receive bills for the next three months but just what can be ground out cannot be foretold at this early date.

position, was said to be confidence of success. It was indicated he would not take the full time allotted for argument.

But Seldon Bacon and Julius Henry Cohen of New York both appearing voluntarily, were to occupy two hours of the court's time with their argument.

The brief of William H. Sprague and William J. Howey, two New Jersey farmers indicted for transporting some beer, contained the name of many high-priced lawyers, all serving voluntarily. It included: Frederick M. P. Pearce, Daniel P. Cohan, Kenneth E. Dayton, Leslie J. Tompkins, George H. Williams, the latter an ex-convict from Missouri, and Burton A. Zorn. Other briefs were filed as "friends of the court."

Solicitor-General Thatcher maintains the high court disposed of the question in its original decision; the opposing lawyers say it has never been decided.

Brief Outline
The position of those attacking the amendment is stated in the brief as follows:

"As the 18th amendment has never been adopted by the people, to whom alone was reserved the power to grant any such additional powers over themselves or their rights to the national government, congress had no power to enact or enforce the statutory provisions under which this indictment is framed. The provisions of the act on which the indictment is predicated are therefore unconstitutional."

The 18th amendment—granting the federal government additional powers over the people—could only be ratified through state constitutional conventions, to which delegates were elected by the people, they contended.

Solicitor-General Thatcher contended that under the constitution, congress could provide for ratification of an amendment either by legislatures or by state conventions.

"Of the amendments, certainly the 13th, and apparently the 16th and 19th, operated to grant powers to the federal government which had formerly been reserved to the states," he said. "The proposed child labor amendment was of the same type. The 14th amendment imposed serious restraints upon the powers expressly reserved under the 10th amendment. Yet all of these amendments were referred by congress to the legislatures without any suggestion that the constitution required that they be referred to conventions."

SUN'S ROTATION TESTED BY THE SPECTROSCOPE

The behavior of the solar spectrum is of great interest when testing it for determining the sun's rotation. When a photograph is taken of the spectra of both the eastern and western limbs (edges) of the sun, the lines in the spectrum at the east limb shift toward the violet end of the spectrum because the eastern limb is approaching. But the lines in the spectrum of the western limb show a shift toward the red end, because that limb of the sun in the spectrum lines reveal that the sun is rotating from west to east 13 miles per second or 4,680 miles per hour.

In a clear strong voice, Root traced the history of the attempt to make the world court acceptable with the Senate and subsequent negotiations concerning the Senate's reservations.

not be repealed, and in the next breath a majority of the members stated that the law should be changed. "I can't understand why they should contradict themselves that way, and leave the question of settlement so vague."

Attorney Orville Brown stated that he felt the report was given in such a light that those who were strongly in favor of prohibition could claim it was a victory, while those who were wet, could say that it was a wet victory, and it seemed that the newspapers adopted that vein in their comments.

Attorney Brown was of the opinion that some attempt would be made in Congress to change the law during the coming session, and that the enforcement would be taken out of the hands of the state entirely, and placed in federal hands.

County Engineer Thomas A. Gilkey, was of the opinion that the report would give Congress something to think about for the next few months.

W. J. Toner, commercial manager of the Bell Telephone company, stated that the report was much as he had expected it would be, and confirmed his belief that the law of the land was not the will of the majority. He believed that enforcement was practical if the bigger fellows were willing to set the example, but as long as they would not obey the law, one could not expect the little fellow to obey it either.

Don McGrew, stated that he felt that a lot of good time and money had been wasted in compiling the report, without developing anything much that was concrete.

Orville Potter stated that he had not had time enough to read the report to vouch any opinion.

William S. Lewis was of the opinion that the commission had not developed anything new, and felt that the commission had wasted much time in compiling the report, because he felt that very little would come from it.

Needy persons of the city have dug over 5,000 tons of coal at the New Castle Clay Products plant east of town, according to a compilation of records made by Poor Director M. B. Hogue this morning. During the past few days it has been a little harder digging on account of the frozen condition of the ground, but there is still a good force at work.

The free coal has been a great help to the county in alleviating the distress of the needy.

Federation Discusses World Peace Tuesday

Maxwell, having served as a Chaplain in the Navy, could speak with authority on the results of war, and his impressions were told in such a manner that one could follow him all through his experiences. He brought to the minds of his listeners, how horrible war is, and how we should direct our thoughts to how we can prevent it, and do away with the military training camps, which thus bring only thoughts of preparing for war. He also urged disregarding what any military trained man may have to say about peace, as he is disqualified to talk about peace. In speaking of armed Nations, Rev. Maxwell asked the question, "Can we blame these other nations for being suspicious of us, always training for war, and getting prepared in case of necessity?" He closed his talk by going into detail on the subject in a most instructive way.

Subjects assigned for the afternoon, were excellently given. The features occupying the balance of the afternoon were: (a) Remarks, Mrs. John L. Emery; (b) vocal solo, (selected) Mrs. H. H. Rosenthal, with Miss Barbara Schultz at the piano; (c) Citizenship, Circle '96, Mrs. Elmer Morrow; (d) Motion Pictures, Circle '91, Miss Rebecca Bowden; (e) Americanization, Art Club, Miss Edith Moore; (f) Americanism, Reading Circle '96, Mrs. T. E. Marshall. A motion approved "That attention be brought before the council to take action of expediting on sidewalks and public buildings."

Eckenrood for the past four weeks, and who is an authority on health condition having been at the head of an organization of this nature in Michigan, and served for twenty-one years, gave an intensely interesting and fascinating talk on her experiences. She told of going aboard with a group of 126 for the purpose of touring different countries, and seeing what the health conditions actually were, finding them anything but favorable. She also told of witnessing the Passion Play presented, and commented upon it highly, and covered numerous other topics that were colorful and highly entertaining.

The Executive Board meeting was in session at 11 o'clock in the auditorium, opening with the Lord's Prayer and the salute to the flag. A motion made by Mrs. S. D. Pearson that each meeting be opened in this manner, was carried.

Business of importance was taken up. Mrs. Thomas Winter made a resolution regarding motion pictures, and the form of advertising they use etc., which was endorsed, and will be cared for through the Educational Committee. Reports were given from the various committees.

"Why Suffer INDIGESTION," Asked her physician

"Gas and 'sour' stomach can now be corrected without the use of burning, irritating soda, or vicious, habit-forming cathartics."

Calcium Carbonate, (2 1/2 times as effective as soda) in tablet form, is the ideal anti-acid: sure, swift and positive in its relief, yet safe in its use. It is the only remedy which does not upset the acid equilibrium of the body and is incapable of over-dosage.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are Calcium Carbonate in its best and most convenient form, blended with other valuable substances. That's why we urge their use as the only kind for children, and best for men and women.

PRESIDENT HOOVER KEEPS THE FAITH

PROPAGANDISTS for the return of liquor who have been forecasting in metropolitan centers for some time past under the guise of "advance information" on what the Wickersham commission would report, and what attitude President Herbert Hoover would take, are probably sorely disappointed at the message of the president that accompanied the Law Commission report to congress yesterday.

The most frequent guess broadcast in these sources was that the Wickersham commission would make a return for repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the constitution, and that President Herbert Hoover would be led by the commission's findings and urge such action.

But the opposite proves true. Not only did the commission not present a finding for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, but the president would not accede to the suggestion of the commission for a substitute for the amendment modifying the prohibition amendment in the future in case further experience with the dry law does not bring complete satisfaction all around.

President Hoover has kept the faith with the great mass of Americans who stand behind him. Prohibition is here to stay!

NEWSPAPER IDEALS

Every newspaper publisher and editor wants his newspaper to be the best it is possible to issue. The difficulty is in the differences of opinion as to what constitutes the best newspaper. An editor asked his readers how he could make his paper ideal, with this result:

"Cut out the crimes, the murders, the sensational divorce case reports," said the nice people.

"Cut out the accidents, the railway and steamship disasters," said the people who "couldn't bear" to read such things.

"Cut out the politics," said the old-fashioned woman, "I don't understand it and haven't time for it."

"Cut out the so-called funny pictures," said the careful mother. "Such pictures aren't funny, and they're bad, very bad, for children."

"Cut out the ponderous editorials," snapped the man who merely scans the headlines. "Nobody reads 'em nowadays."

"Cut out the woman's page," said the female with the strong mind. "It's mushy, trashy, trivial; an insult to our sex."

"Cut out sports and theaters," said the intellectual. "Both are bad influences, and both have received altogether too much notice."

"Cut out ———," began another and still another, but the publisher beat them to it.

"Stop, all of you," he cried. "On second thought I have decided to cut out myself. It is no use trying to publish the ideal newspaper until I come across the ideal reader."

Without readers no newspaper can live, and until humanity has come to live an ideal life there will be no ideal newspaper; for nobody would read one that spoke only of virtue and never of evil. Newspapers are published to print the news; the nature of news is what people make it.

A CHANGE OF VIEW

This generation has witnessed two stages in the evolution of education in the United States. It has seen the passing of the man who once argued that the high school diploma represented four years wasted time and it has answered for all time the debate whether a college education is worth while. The high school, college and university have established themselves as indispensable agencies of education.

The uneducated no longer question the value of high school and college training, with the exception of such vague murmurings heard from the extreme fundamentalist wing, and where criticism is now heard it is of the young men and women who reject opportunities to attend high school and college or who do not get the utmost out of their schooling. Criticism ever begins with the institution and ends with the individual.

Other things being equal, the college man in better prepared for the struggle for existence than the non-college man. There are successful men who never went to school and there are failures who have spent twenty years in institutions of learning, but both represent the exception. Few men have the force of character and vision to educate themselves and they are no longer in number who can not be benefited by college training.

FUTURE INVENTIONS

It is Thomas A. Edison's belief that the principal inventions in the future will be in the realm of health. He expects biologists and chemists to lead the way in scientific research, although it may be better to qualify the celebrated inventor's statement by suggesting that biologists and chemists will make discoveries rather than contrivances.

Mr. Edison apparently based his prediction on the simple idea of necessity being the mother of invention. He would apply this also to research and discovery. "There is too much sickness," he declared. "Something will have to be done about it, and that is where biology and chemistry come in." He thus puts dependence in humanity's recognition of an obligation to itself and its development of super-efficiency in solving the difficult problem of its own bodily ills.

None of which is taken to mean that either biology or chemistry has lagged far behind as other sciences made great progress. Either it is to admit that in the realm of human health there is a vast amount of knowledge yet to be gained. The physician and the surgeon readily admit that the field only has been entered. Every day there is something new in both chemistry and biology in the application of prevention and treatment.

Man has been his own greatest mystery. He has understood far more about other things than about himself. A century ago when various other sciences were far advanced, comparatively speaking, the medical profession did not amount to much. In the last two or three generations the progress has been remarkable. In the last decade medicine and surgery have leaped forward.

One gets the impression, in looking back over the tedious, difficult progress the medical profession has made, say in the last 50 years, that the human animal is possessed of an endless array of peculiarities and mysteries. No other species approaches it in this respect, which probably is due to the fact that man's environment is entirely different. In addition man is a much more sensitive creature than any other in the animal kingdom. Thus the physician and surgeon are obliged to study not only the results as to ills but to search for the causes, the ramifications of which take them into almost every field of human endeavor.—The Sioux City Journal.

Dear Fred: One meets with many amusing little incidents in passing up and down the highways. Prowling through a certain suburban portion of New Castle recently, the following legend loomed up on a well lighted building:

"Decent dancing here every night except Monday."

This pavilion was well filled with a merry crowd of dancers and the orchestra was playing a fast and furious air. Those on the floor were responding in lively manner in which the display of women's hoseery "went the limit." I was almost tempted to enter for a few moments recreation, when the thought occurred to me that it was Monday night and I quietly drifted on.

ALWAYS APOLOGIZING?

Some people always are apologizing. For themselves. For their children. For their houses. For the meals they've cooked. For the way they look. For the work they do. For everything.

You didn't notice anything was wrong. You thought they looked all right. You thought their children were nice, normal little creatures. You enjoyed the meal you'd just eaten. You were having a good time and you felt grateful.

Then they begin apologizing—in a fretful, pleading sort of way. And they upset all your ease, all your ideas about them. The apologizing gets on your nerves and you lose some of your admiration for them.

Why do they do it? I think I know why. They long too deeply for Perfection. They want everything, all the time, to be going along perfectly. They have an ideal in their hearts, and it is an impossible one. They are Great Souls, struggling wearily through a commonplace life—and they want you to know how their ideals tower into the heavens above their small, insignificant abilities. So they plead with you to admire what they might have been instead of what they are. And they apologize.

But it doesn't work. It can't work. Because that isn't idealism—it is snobbery. It is saying: "I am better, nobler than I seem to be—and you must give me credit for my good intentions." Well, the world will not do it. If you spill soup in the world's lap and say you are sorry, the world will try to forgive you. But if you place good soup before the hungry world and then apologize for it, the world will begin to wonder what's wrong with the soup and what's wrong with you. It will remember only that you made it uncomfortable and you stick in the world's memory merely as That Fellow Who Always Apologizes.

And if you're always apologizing, you're always a bore.

Approval of most sensible people on the dry side is observed by the YAKIMA DAILY REPUBLIC, with the further comment: "Not much reflection has been necessary to convince reasonably intelligent people everywhere that the 'five and ten' scheme is worse than the condition which it was designed to correct. We can't afford to make selling a bottle of booze the worst crime in the catalog except first degree murder. To do so isn't right, and besides that, costs too much in these times of tax oppression."

"It indicates," in the opinion of the CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER, "that dry sentiment is hostile to a law which has tended to injure rather than aid the cause of prohibition. The next Congress will also be dry, but not so dry as the present body, and it was rather a stroke of genius to scotch the Jones law at the present time. There will be practically no mourners, as Senator Jones himself author of the law, has publicly expressed his doubt of the utility of the statute. Modification of the Jones law may be accepted as the first step of the dominant drys toward a more tolerant attitude."

"Sympathy aroused through stories of severe punishments is believed by the MADISON WISCONSIN STATE JOURNAL to have been an effective talking point for the wet."

And the State Journal concludes: "Prohibition can only be made a permanent tenet of this nation through a belief of the people that the law is beneficial. The campaign of the drys should be with arguments that will convince the public that a better and a greater nation will result because of the absence of alcoholic liquor. There has been too much in the program of the drys emphasizing their desire that the nation shall be compelled to accept prohibition through force. In this they have played into the hands of the opponents of prohibition and aided rather than retarded sentiment for the modification of the prohibition law."

"It is no small victory for the anti-prohibition forces," thinks the OSHKOSH DAILY NORTHWESTERN, "to see this modification of a measure that aroused great and spirited opposition from reasonable drys as well as wets. There was general attack upon the law as being too severe and entirely too un-American."

There is enough to think about to keep your affairs in good running order at present.

Modification Of Jones Law Pleases Both Drys And Wets

Injustice In Original Legislation, Congestion Of Courts And Unforeseen Defects In Old Drastic Provisions Recognized By Country

Action of Congress in modifying the Jones "five-and-ten" liquor laws is received by the country with practically unanimous approval. Both drys and wets see advantages in the change. It is held that the original law was too drastic, that its provisions as applied to minor cases produced congestion in the courts, and that various other unforeseen defects were found.

"A tremendous effect on prohibition enforcement" is forecast by the CHATTANOOGA NEWS, with the comment that "it could not have passed Congress without prohibition support, since Congress is overwhelmingly dry."

The News also says as to the practical effect of this legislation: "The Stobbs bill will go a long way towards relieving congestion in courts and in the penitentiaries. It provides for a fine of not more than $500 or six months in jail for first offenders, in violations involving more than a gallon of liquor. The original Jones law made felonies of all violations by providing a maximum penalty of $10,000 fine or five years in jail. The Jones law carried a proviso that it was the intent of Congress to have the courts discriminate between light violations and habitual sales of liquor. The Stobbs bill merely sets limits upon that proviso."

It is explained by the KANSAS CITY STAR that the measure "was a hang-over from the last session."

And The Star continues: "Like the transfer of the prohibition enforcement unit from the treasury to the department of justice, which congress provided for at the time it was recommended by the national commission on law observance and enforcement after a thorough study of the situation. House approval of the measure without a record vote is evidence, once more, of the dry strength of congress and of a disposition to aid in more effective enforcement."

"Approval of most sensible people on the dry side is observed by the YAKIMA DAILY REPUBLIC, with the further comment: 'Not much reflection has been necessary to convince reasonably intelligent people everywhere that the 'five and ten' scheme is worse than the condition which it was designed to correct. We can't afford to make selling a bottle of booze the worst crime in the catalog except first degree murder. ## WINDY CITY GIVES O.G.s. BIG PLURALITY IN RIPLEY'S NEWEST CIGARETTE TASTE-TEST

By ROBERT RIPLEY, Himself

It didn't take Chicago long to decide which cigarette it likes best. I got the answer in six hours.

I arrived at the Windy City at high noon... with a supply of the four leading brands of cigarettes... masked with black bands to conceal the names.

Before the close of the afternoon I had given the "taste-test" to every rank and file in the town... from the cattle herders at the stock-yards to movie fans in the loop.

And as usual, O. G. ran away with the vote.

Take it from me... or leave it... so far, I haven't been able to make OLD GOLD lose.

In Judge Chambers' court room today the case of Saverio Pollis, by his father Alessandro Pollis against Fred Cipri is still on trial. This is a case in which Pollis is seeking to recover damages for injuries to Saverio Pollis, who was struck by a ball thrown by Cipri during a game on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie grounds in the Seventh ward.

Cipri, who threw his bat after he had been struck out, maintains that the striking of Pollis was an accident. The plaintiffs agree that the striking of Pollis was an accident, but maintain that Cipri was careless in throwing his bat.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Make Home Attractive To Children

Psychologist Advises Enriching Of Family Life

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

At an assembly of college presidents a few years ago, President Hibben of Princeton said: "The youth of today is not enthusiastic about anything. It is bored."

Assuming that what he said is correct, what have been some of the causes of this boredom, what are some of the consequences, and what are we going to do about it?

When the parents of the high school and college youth were young folk there were fewer home competitors for pleasures and enjoyments, and the average home had more attractions for the child.

As works of art, many homes are becoming more and more beautiful year by year. Many of those who can afford it, live in residences today which, for majesty and works of art surpass most palaces of kings a few centuries ago.

But after all, a real home is not so much a place as an atmosphere. Home is where the heart is, where loved ones mingle, enjoying one another's companionship.

With the rapid growth of modern conveniences, even for the average home, household appliances and canned goods, there is little real need of creativeness and family cooperation as compared with the homes of yore. Practically no more quilting parties, apple peeling bees, even in the rural home, in the poorest home, the making of clothing or of furniture is no longer profitable. Very little to stimulate natural activities there by children with their parents and with other young folk of the neighborhood.

The marvels through the movies and sound pictures, new wondrous world achievement announced over the radio and through the newspaper and magazine comes so thick and fast that such matters tend to seem commonplace. So fed up with the novel and the ever-changing whirl of new inventions, new discoveries and marvelous events, things to afford excitement must be extraordinary. Hence the modern mania for continuously new excitements, with young men and women of today, even older ones, resorting to wild drinking parties and amusements full of the risk, amusements which ignore and even ridicule standards and ideals once cherished as almost sacred—forever a wild chase for new pleasures and new thrills.

Some of us stand by with abated breath as we observe the passing show, hardly knowing what to do or what will happen next.

Others of us see some light on the horizon. We see, for instance, promising developments in activity programs of the public schools where particularly our young children find pleasures in creativeness even carrying their activities begun at school into the home. Forward looking parents are, for their children's sakes turning their homes into play work shops and laboratories, providing tools or workrooms, letting children work right in the basement, living room or kitchen and inviting other children there to work and play with them.

Such homes have activity parents who have creative interests too. They make the home a meeting place and playground for their children and their children's friends. Parents and their children in such homes find enjoyment about the family board and family fireside and there the older children have their clubs and parties.

Yes, I believe there is some hope for making life for modern youth less of a bore and for enriching it for them right in the home. But we parents will have to be on the jump if we are not going to lag behind.

Peter's Adventures

JUST AN OLD ANT CUSTOM
Lately, the little Black Ant slave, looked meek and humble. Peter stared at her in amazement.

"I declare I do not see how you can feel so kindly toward your mistresses. If it were not for them you would be happily living with your own people. Here you are, their slave. I should think you would hate the whole tribe of Red Ants."

Lively shook her head. "I don't," she said. "That would be wrong. The Red Ants hate us Black Ants, but I was brought up to believe it was right to do good to them that hate me. Anyhow, the Red Ants aren't to blame for making war upon my race. It's just an old, old custom of theirs. Their great-grandmothers were trained to believe that nature intended the Black Ants to be their slaves. So were their grandmothers. So are their daughters. So as soon as a Red Ant grows up the first thing she wants to do is to go on the war-path and conquer the people she has been taught to despise, because they are weaker than her race. Come now, you can't blame folks for what I suppose you, I really, haven't much to complain of. Mine is the kindest mistress in the world. Even if I am her slave, she treats me like a friend, and I really believe she is kinder to me than of her own sisters. And I'd do anything in the world for her."

"Of course!" Lively was decided on this point. "It must be wonderful to be able to do exactly what one wants to. Many of the time I have rebelled at being at somebody's beck and call. But after all, I really haven't much to complain of. Mine is the kindest mistress in the world. Even if I am her slave, she treats me like a friend, and I really believe she is kinder to me than of her own sisters. And I'd do anything in the world for her."

"No, I suppose not," agreed Peter. "But just the same, if I were you, I know I could never forgive my enemies for what they had done. Tell the truth, wouldn't you rather be free than a slave?"

"Of course!" Lively was decided on this point. "It must be wonderful to be able to do exactly what one wants to. Many of the time I have rebelled at being at somebody's beck and call. But after all, I really haven't much to complain of. Mine is the kindest mistress in the world. Even if I am her slave, she treats me like a friend, and I really believe she is kinder to me than of her own sisters. And I'd do anything in the world for her."

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous remedy. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's so true, lie at all to mix and cost but a trifle. Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Nasal Sinus Susceptible To Disease

Structure Of Nose Cause Of Infection, Says Expert

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
The anatomy and nature of nasal sinuses render them very subject to disease. They communicate with the nose by very narrow openings. They form secretions inside themselves which must drain into the nose. If their openings are stopped up these secretions are dammed back and accumulate in the sinuses, furnishing a fine breeding ground for germs. As the openings are small, they are easily stopped up. Hence the frequency of sinus disease.

What causes the openings to be closed? Well, if you look into somebody's nostril you will see that there is not much room inside the nose at best. And if the bones and cartilages inside these get crooked they can very easily press against one another and close things up.

Everyone experiences the ease with which the nose can be closed up when they have a bad cold. Just the congestion consequent on the inflammation of the outer side of the nose, during a cold, of feeling something "break" and simultaneously a large amount of secretion drain out. This secretion comes from one of the sinuses and has been held back by the "closedness" of the lower nose. This simple happening is really the type or basis of all sinus disease—acute or chronic.

It is easily and really best done under a local anesthetic. The symptoms of sinus disease are varied. A sense of obstruction, with continuous discharge, are the commonest. When the sinuses become completely blocked there is frequent headache, particularly when the frontal sinus (above the eye) is involved. When the maxillary sinus is closed neuralgia and pain in the cheek and face may occur.

Chronic sinus infection may lead to middle ear disease and deafness. Long continued drainage from the nose into the back of the throat may cause asthma.

Dry Repealer In Legislature

Philadelphians Launch Move To Repeal Snyder-Armstrong Act

SENATORS VICTIMS IN POLITICAL FEUD

(From News Bureau)
HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—With Gifford Pinchot installed in the governor's chair of Pennsylvania, with the tumult and the shouting about died away, the flood of bills has started and the legislative hopper has received its first batch of what is hoped by various legislators to become law.

One of the first bills to be introduced was done so jointly by Representatives Sowers and Schwartz of Philadelphia who propose repealing the Snyder-Armstrong Act, the Pennsylvania enforcement act but-tressing the 18th Amendment and the Volstead Act. How far this bill will get can be judged by the fact that the Law and Order Committee is overwhelmingly dry, and Governor Pinchot asserted in his inaugural address that "this administration will be dry."

Several Others

Several other bills similar in character to the Sowers-Schwartz bill were introduced and will probably meet the same fate. Sunday opening bills were plentiful also. Representative Musmanno of Allegheny County introduced a Local Option bill designed to give each city a voice in whether or not it would commercialize the Sabbath Day. Perry of Philadelphia introduced a similar bill. Here again the bills must take the hurdle of the Law and Order committee and this committee is said to be composed of 19 against such legislation to 8 for.

Strickler of Lancaster County introduced a bill appropriating $2,000,000 for construction and maintenance of state routes passing over streets of cities of the third class. It was a bill similar to that that gave New Castle $76,000 in the bi-ennium just closing and from which funds were paid for the paving of Grant street and Butler and Croton avenues. In all 122 bills were introduced and will be sent to committee on Monday night January 26th by Speaker of the House C. Jay Goodnough.

No Bills in Senate

The Senate did not introduce any bills, nor attempt to bring up the confirmation of Public Service Commissioners Bunn and Walker. All the Senate did was little as possible, following the announcements of committees. This was enough for one week and may result in a war of retaliation upon the part of the House that will carry the session into the warm months.

Committee appointments in the Senate were based upon how the senators voted for the presidency pro tem. Those who voted for Pinchot's candidate William Mansfield of McKeesport were quietly led to the block and their official heads lopped off with efficiency and dispatch. Those who voted for Daix of Philadelphia were rewarded with the important committee chairmanships. The important committee on Appropriations, usually the plum of a veteran senator went to Senator Scott of Centre County. The veteran from Bucks County, Senator Clarence Buckman, was divorced from the important Roads Committee chairmanship and this given to Frederick T. Gelder of Susquehanna County. Buckman was for Mansfield. Gelder was for Daix. The most ironic appointment of all was that of Senator Robert Heaton who occupies Seat Number one. He voted for Mansfield and was given the chairmanship of the Committee on Canals and Inland Navigation, a committee which never meets. Senator George T. Weingartner of Lawrence County was removed from the Committee of Law and Order; chairmanship and given the committee on Pensions and Gratuities. Senator James J. Coyne of Allegheny County, a leader in both Allegheny County and State politics was given the chairmanship of the committee on Federal Relations, which committee has met, perhaps once in ten years. On the other hand Senator Joseph T. Armstrong, Jr., serving his first session was given chairmanship of the committee on Insurance, an important committee. He voted for Daix.

The feelings of the veterans in the Senate who were so ruthlessly shorn of their chairmanships can be better imagined than described. There was little said but there is an ominous feeling and when the time comes to put the thumb screws on those responsible for the executions, they will be applied cheerfully and without anesthesia. There are breakers ahead and they loom not far from the harbor lights. The Philadelphia gang is being blamed for the ruthless manner in which they disposed of their opponents and a wholesale punishment such as this is cannot be passed over lightly without reprisals.

The committee appointments of Senator George T. Weingartner follow. Pensions and Gratuities (chairman), Appropriations, Banks and Loans Associations, Education, Elections, Finance, Game and Fisheries, Insurance, Judiciary General, Law and Order, Municipal Affairs, New Counties and County Seats, Public Roads and Highways.

Methodist Elders Will Probe Acts Of Bishop Cannon

Jury Of Elders Will Convene
In Washington In February
To Probe Charges

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—Unless Bishop James Cannon, Jr., now at Marlin, Texas, undergoing medical treatment, is able to bring about a postponement, a jury of Methodist elders will convene here early in February to pass upon his stock market activities and other charges preferred against him by four of his ecclesiastical colleagues.

The presiding bishop will be W. N. Ainsworth of Macon, Ga., who has been engaged with plans for the "trial" ever since the charges were filed against Bishop Cannon some months ago by four traveling elders of the church. Twelve elders, whose names have not yet been disclosed, will comprise the jury.

Under church procedure, if two-thirds of the jury decide that the evidence is such that Bishop Cannon should go to trial his case will be passed on to the next Methodist quadrennial convention, which meets in 1934. The general conference is the only body which can convict the bishop, although he can be immediately suspended if the jury of elders returns an unfavorable verdict.

Miner In Jail For Kidnaping

WHEELING, W. Va., Jan. 21.—Paul Porter, 29, local miner of Elm Grove, was arrested here charged with having kidnapped David Little, 16, of Triadelphia, robbed him of all his money, which he had induced the boy to draw from his bank, and abandoned him in a bare shack in a mine settlement in an isolated section of the county. State police located the boy yesterday and returned him to his home. He had been missing since Saturday.

SHE LOVED TO EAT BUT WAS ALWAYS PUNISHED FOR IT

Much of the suffering from so-called "indigestion" or acid-dyspepsia could be avoided if everyone could know what thousands like Miss Lillian Halston have learned. This New York City business woman, who lives at 1160 Park Avenue, says:

"I suffered from headaches and heartburn after meals; couldn't sleep like I should; never felt right."

"For five years I experimented with medicines and treatments, until I learned about Pape's Diapepsin. I have used three packages now; have gained five pounds, and feel fine. I eat meats and anything I please. At the first sign of discomfort I chew a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin and the trouble is gone in a minute."

If you, too, suffer from sourness, gas, belching, nausea, headaches, dizziness, or pain after eating—either regularly or just at times, get a box of Pape's Diapepsin from your druggist. Then you need never worry again about what you eat. These tablets are like candy and just as harmless. If you would like to try them before buying, write Pape's Diapepsin, Wheeling, W. Va., and you will receive a sample box, FREE.

Who is the United States ambassador to Germany?
Frederic M. Sackett is the United States ambassador to Germany.

Who was Rasputin?
Rasputin was a Russian monk and royal favorite, born at Petrovsky, Siberia, in 1870. He was introduced into society circles in St. Petersburg and, although of peasant origin, eventually he became intimate even with the Emperor Nicholas himself. It was generally understood that because of supposed mystic powers he exercised much influence over both czar and czarina. After being credited with many scandalous intrigues, he was stabbed in 1916. He had the service of the czar's physician and recovered. He died in 1916.

What was the building in London known as "Old Bailey"? Is it still standing?

The "Old Bailey" was an ancient criminal court, with a prison adjoining, in London. It attained a gruesome reputation at a time when many crimes other than murder were punishable with death, because of the great number of convictions there for capital offenses and the speediness of the judges and juries serving there to convict any accused person brought to trial. It was destroyed by fire during the Gordon riots of 1780, but was rebuilt, and is now officially known as the Central Criminal Court, though still popularly called the "Old Bailey."

How long was the "Reign of Terror" during the French Revolution?
The "Reign of Terror," that period of the French Revolution beginning with the fall of the Girondists and terminating with the overthrow of Robespierre, began in June, 1793, and lasted until July 27, 1794.

How many cubic inches are there in a bushel?
The United States standard bushel measures 2150.42 cubic inches, or nearly one and one-quarter cubic feet.

Who was Michael Faraday?
Michael Faraday was a distinguished English chemist and physicist. He was born near London in 1791, the son of a blacksmith. Faraday's first important discovery was the revolution of a magnetic needle around an electric current (1821) and 10 years later came his work on magneto-electricity and induction. These discoveries naturally furnished the foundation for the development of magneto and dynamo machines and other inventions of importance. Faraday was one of the most brilliant experimentalists that science has ever known and to him credit must be given for much that electricity has accomplished. In 1835 he received a pension and in 1836 he became the scientific advisor of Trinity House. By royal grant he occupied a house at Hampton Court. He was invited to become the president of the Royal Society but declined the honor. He died in 1867.

A rector was visiting one of his poor parishioners, an old woman afflicted with deafness, who expressed her great regret at not being able to hear his sermons. Desiring to be sympathetic, he said, with unnecessary self-deprecation, "You don't miss much."

Bomb Explosions In Buenos Aires Are Investigated

Government And Railway
Officials Probe Death
Of Four, Twelve
Are Injured

THREE RAILROAD TERMINALS BOMBED

(International News Service)
BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 21.—Triple bomb explosions which occurred almost simultaneously in three railroad terminals here, killing four persons and injuring 12 others were under investigation by government and railway officials today.

Three of the victims were killed instantly by the blast at the western railroad terminus, and one of the injured succumbed during the night.
Authorities were mystified as to the cause of the bombing but were inclined to believe they were the work of anarchists. Police rounded up a number of suspects and held them for questioning.

The victims were railway employees killed when a leather handbag brought into the office of the station agent was opened by him with the ensuing explosion. Bystanders were injured.

The second blast took place in the coaches of a train of southern railway terminus, resulting in injuries to several persons.

The third bomb exploded in a train coach as it was starting out of the central Argentine terminal.
The coach was shattered and six persons were hurt.

Yule Decorations Fired In Home As Boy Strikes Match

Norman, 9, son of Mr. and
Mrs. B. C. Leonard, 915 S.
Mill street, wanted to find a pencil box in a second floor closet early Tuesday afternoon. His grandmother was against the plan. The grandson, however, decided to find the box among some old Christmas decorations that were piled in the darkness, with the help of a match.

Ill. B. C. Leonard, was the first to discover a fire in the closet and summoned the family. Members of the Leonardo household snuffed out the flames with water. Damage was $30, firemen who had been called to make an inspection, reported.

Little Norman, his family report, "was playing with matches."

City Controller Explains Taxes To Wolves Club

Attorney Frank Moretti Is Ad- mitted As New Member Of The Organization

Regular meeting of the Wolves club was an event of Tuesday evening at the Elks Club. The attendance was good and the program of the evening which included a most interesting address by City Controller Phil G. Greer on the subject of "The Tax Dollar and What Becomes of It," was one of the best yet presented at a meeting of the organization.

Following the dinner, which was served at six o'clock, President D. D.
Valiensi assumed charge and presented Attorney Frank Moretti as a new member of the organization.
He made a brief address pledging himself to the advancement of the organization.

President Valiensi then turned the session over to Frank C. Summer, chairman of the entertainment committee, who briefly outlined the plan of the committee to have something of interest every meeting and promised a pleasing surprise entertainment program at the meeting in two weeks.

He then introduced Phil G. Greer, city controller, who gave a detailed and interesting address on the tax money raised in the city for city and school purposes, showing what share of every dollar was spent for each respective purpose and showing that this city and school district is well managed and gives the people more for their money than most cities of the same size in the state and country.

His address was followed by a general discussion, in which Mr.
Greer answered various pertinent questions in regard to taxes and their use in this city in a manner that was very enlightening to his audience. He was tendered a rising vote of thanks for his address at the close of the meeting.

The new Wolves Club song sheets were used with Peter J. Iodice presiding at the piano and Peter Capitola and Francis DeSanctis directing the singing.

Those present at the event were:
Frank C. Summer, Phil G. Greer,
D. D. Valiensi, Dr. J. P. Prioletti,
H. K. Bell, A. N. Carbon, Anthony

Rules Horse Rider May "Step On It"

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—A horse is not a vehicle. Magistrate Rudich very thoughtfully decided today.

David Heller was in court charged with "operating" his horse "at a rate of speed and in a manner to endanger life and property." The "operating" took place in a public park.

"Heller's horse," said the arresting officer, "was lathered and snorting, so I gave him a ticket." "If you can't gallop a horse on a bridle path," said the court, "then I'd like to know where."

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—The

If you want to witness a hanging—come in and select your "four walls" immediately. And it's true nevertheless, that while we use tons of paste annually, we are not "stuck up" when we tell you, our men can do a very neat job of "hanging"!

CAT DIVES INTO SEA FOR FISH

Lighthouse Keeper Owns Feline
Which Catches Own
Food

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 21.—
It's not strange for a bird to catch fish, or a cat to catch birds, but it's a bit unusual for a cat to dive into the ocean to catch fish.

Such a cat has Captain Adolf H.
Aronson, keeper of Pomham Light.

The cat, called Tommy, acquired the fishing habit from Captain Aronson's children.

Perched motionless on a rock
Tommy awaits the approach of a fish, then dives, head first, into the sea, seizing prey with mouth and claws.

Tommy invariably hides the fish under a lilac bush on the island until he has enough for a meal.

The cat doesn't like the salt water, for he rolls in the grass to dry himself, whereas after a rain storm
he licks himself dry.

Twice Tommy got fish hooks caught in his mouth when he took a liking to bait attached to them as they lay unused on the ground.
Each time, Captain Aronson removed the hooks without serious result.

Year's First Bogus Alarm Takes Away Central's Calm

Somewhere in the city a fire alarm sender is receiving the mental telegraphic messages of wrath from three companies of firemen who responded to the first fake alarm of 1931 Tuesday night. There is no use explaining what will happen to the sender if his name is found out.

Fire Chief Charles H. Lynn declared at Central fire station this morning.

The year's initial fake alarm, sent from Box 49, Long avenue and Williams street, at 10:15 p. m. Tuesday dropped a bombshell into the happy atmosphere of Central, No. 4 and No. 5 stations. Snow that whisked through the night air as a result of a high wind impeded the progress of apparatus drivers.

Helmets were covered with heavy layer of snow and firemen had to clean snow from their eyes. One fireman's face was covered with thick snow. Two large holes for his eyes permitted vision. Coat hooks were frozen.

No. 5's triple combination hose, chemical and pump truck, No. 4's hose and chemical truck and Central's

B service truck responded.

Fire Chief Lynn and Capt. J. W.
Clark of No. 4 led the investigation following the arrival of the apparatus. Neither fire nor fire alarm sender could be found.

Chief Lynn declared the particular alarm would have caused a furore in the department if a genuine alarm had been sent while the apparatus was in the vicinity of Box 49 during the supposed fire.

When a spoiled young loafer waits for something to turn up, the thing that usually turns up is the bottom of the car.

Mr. Hoover intended merely to take a hand in the railroad situation—not to get his foot in it.

Twenty-Six In Oklahoma City Jailed In Riot

Food Rioters Are Dispersed
By Police As They
Plunder Grocery Store

TWO ARE FACING SERIOUS CHARGES

(International News Service)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 21.—Twenty-six persons arrested and held in the city jail overnight following a riot staged by 300 men and women on a grocery store sought their release today.

Two of the prisoners were booked on serious charges. Floyd Phillips was charged with inciting a riot and John Simmons was booked for assaulting a policeman.

The crowd descended upon the grocery store and plundered the shelves of food yesterday after a delegation asked city authorities for relief.

"We want food and we are going to get it," was the cry taken up by the crowd as they plundered the store of its foodstuffs. Police squad dispersed the crowd with tear gas and clubs, taking three patrol wagons on loads of prisoners.

Authorities doubled the guard about the jail last night when it was reported that the mob was planning to attack the jail and free the prisoners taken during the demonstration.

Officials Today

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21.—While the bodies of four men, believed victims of alcoholism, lay in the morgue here today, an investigation into their deaths was being pushed by attaches of the coroner's office.

Andy Lessick, 39, was pronounced dead at a local hospital where he was taken by police. Death was due to acute alcoholism, a morgue report said.

A man believed to be John Stock, about 45, lodged in jail with two other men where police found Lessick, complained in his cell of illness and was removed to a hospital. He died of alcoholism, morgue attaches said.

The pair picked up with the victims were also treated at the hospital and removed to the police station.

An unidentified man, about 35, found lying in the street with a bottle partly filled with alleged moonshine, died of the effects of acute alcoholism at the Allegheny General hospital, morgue officials reported.

Ellwood Gibson, 32, the fourth victim, a negro, died at his home of alcoholic effects, the coroner's office reported.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

PREPARES FOR TRAINING DAYS

Thomas Turner, North Cedar Street, Predicts Good Racing Season For His Pigeons

Thomas Turner's spare time during the last several months has been spent in making improvements on his pigeon loft, located at the rear of his North Cedar street home. And it was time well spent, all will agree who have inspected the loft. There is probably no neater and cleaner loft in this part of the country.

It is the home of over 100 homing pigeons and judging from the way they jump around and coo, they appreciate the trouble Mr. Turner has taken to make them contented.

The walls of the loft are all white-washed, as are all the shelves or nests inside. In a very short time the pigeons will be allowed to go into a number of new compartments just arranged for them. At the present time Mr. Turner has covered the new compartments with burlap, while working on others. He will allow the pigeons to go in when all the compartments are complete.

Windows and openings have been repaired, and are all ready for the days when the pigeons will hop into their lofts, breathless, after several hundred miles race.

In March Mr. Turner will commence the training of his flyers. He expects to get real results this year in the racing field. The birds are every one in splendid healthy condition, whereas last year they were not in such good condition.

Racing will start in May, according to Turner. There are a number of stocky reddish pigeons in the loft that will probably prove to be fast long and short distance racers. There are other birds of many varieties, most of which Mr. Turner raised, others were gifts or were purchased.

One black homer, pecking contentedly around in the loft yesterday, seemed to be especially pleased with life. Perhaps it was because of such a hard time he had last year in returning from a long race. He was gone for several months and his owner gave him up as a goner. But he turned up one day, squeezed through a very small opening and into the loft with his sisters and brothers.

He was thin and his feathers were in bad shape, showing that he had had a mighty rough time of it. But he was glad to be home. Such a nice home, too.

Interior Work Near Completion

Seats Now Completely Installed In New St. Lucy's Church Auditorium

Very little remains to be done before the new St. Lucy's Italian Catholic church will be complete in every detail. All of the exterior work has been completed and workmen are concentrating their efforts toward finishing details in the church auditorium and in the parish house.

Just recently the last of the seats in the auditorium were put in place. The seats are most attractive and were made to order. Four hundred people can be seated comfortably in the auditorium. The heating system has been installed. Particularly striking are the colored glass windows, each of which was donated by members of the congregation.

Dedication service for the new church, according to present plans, will take place February 15.

Warning Issued By Police To Radio Dealers Of City

Man Has Been Purchasing Radios And Giving Phoney Checks In Payment

As a result of report made to the police by those who have been victimized or on whom the attempt has been made, the police today issued a warning to the radio dealers of the city to be on their guard against a man, who has been making the rounds of some of the radio dealers of the city and presenting phoney checks in payment for a radio purchased and securing some cash in change above the cost of the radios purchased.

The method employed is that of purchasing a small low priced radio and presenting a check of approximately $60 in payment for the same, receiving the difference in cash. In each instance a phoney address has been given for the delivery of the radio.

The checks have been apparently issued in the name of the Commonwealth Light and Power Company of Pittsburgh and the man presenting them has been giving the name of John Prather. It has been found that there is no such concern as that in whose name the checks have been issued.

The man presenting the checks and making the purchases is six feet tall, weighs about 210 pounds and about fifty years of age. He has been dressed in a dark brown overcoat, light brown hat, brown army shirt and black tie.

Street Car Operators To Celebrate Safety Record On Thursday

Two hundred seventy car and bus operators of the Penn-Ohio System and their wives will meet with officials of the system Thursday in the ballroom of the Hotel Ohio, Youngstown, to celebrate the finest record for safety ever established by the transportation system, made in the year which closed December 31. The operators came from Youngstown, New Castle, Sharon, Warren and Niles.

Two meetings will be held, one at 11 o'clock in the morning for the men who work in the evening and the other at 7 o'clock in the evening for those who work in the morning and early afternoon. Both meetings are in the nature of banquets given to the men who made records for not having been charged with an accident in the second six-month period of 1930. A similar dinner meeting will be held within a few days in the community hall at Parkman, Ohio, in honor of 26 interurban coach operators who had no accident in the six-month period.

In all 296 operators in the city and interurban car and motor-coach service of the Penn-Ohio had clear records from July 1 to December 31, inclusive. Of them 223 operators, or 75 per cent, of all in the service for the entire year, went through 1930 from start to finish without being responsible for an accident.

In that time accidents of a chargeable nature were reduced 37.9 per cent, as compared with the fine record that had been made in 1929, the year in which the Youngstown Municipal Railway won the Charles A. Coffin gold medal for excellent service, and 58.2 per cent, as compared with 1927, the year for which the Penn-Ohio was awarded the Anthony N. Brady gold medal for safest service by the American Museum of Safety.

Accidents of all kinds, including those over which the operators had no control, such as automobiles striking standing cars, broken windows and the like, many of a trivial nature, also were reduced in 1930. The reduction as compared with the preceding year was 18.4 per cent, and as compared with 1927, it was 32.5 per cent.

New Hearings Must Be Given

Second Ward Property Owners To Get Chance To Appeal New Figures

REEVES OBJECTS TO PUBLICITY

Another date will have to be set by city council for hearing appeals on assessments of property in the second ward, when the present revision of valuations being made by council is completed, it was stated by Mayor W. H. Gillespie yesterday afternoon.

When the figures were submitted to property owners by the assessors some weeks ago, and it was found that large increases had been made in many instances, there was a deluge of property owners on city hall when the time arrived for appeals. Upwards of 400 property owners from the second ward appeared to protest the increases.

Overwhelmed by the flood of appeals councilmen set about, as a board of revision, to adjust the complaints. After some days in the effort it was discovered that the only equitable way to make any progress in the second ward was to take up the assessment of every property in the ward and approve or revise the assessor's figures.

At the outset of this work, a News reporter was in attendance at the meetings, and reported the changes made. As the complaints began to reach the councilmen, one of the members, Councilman Reeves, objected strenuously to the presence of the reporter, maintaining that the action of council should be a star chamber proceeding, and that neither the newspaper nor the public had any access to the figures until the entire ward revision had been completed.

None of the other councilmen, Louis G. Genkinger, Stanley Treser or W. T. Burns, nor Mayor W. H. Gillespie voiced outward objection to publicity on the work being done by council as a revision board. As the work continued and the protests apparently became much more numerous from property owners, Councilman Reeves became much more vehement in his protests, and yesterday The News was informed by other councilmen that Reeves would not attend further meetings if the reporter attended. As a matter solely of eliminating embarrassment for the other four members of the council, The News agreed to waive publication of further revision figures until the ward had been completed.

It is incumbent upon council to give every property owner a notice of the changes made, and it will be necessary to grant a hearing in case any appeals are desired. Revision figures now being set by council in the board of revision are not final, and will not be until they have been finally acted upon by council after the public hearings in the board of revision.

Farmers Profit By New Policies

Chairman Alexander Legge, Speaks Before House Committee Today

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The Federal Farm board would lose about $70,000,000 on wheat and cotton if it were forced to liquidate today, Chairman Alexander Legge estimated to the House Appropriations committee, on January 12, it was disclosed in hearings of the House Appropriations committee today. But farmers of the country, Legge said, are profiting about $3,000,000 a week because of the stabilization policies of the board. This, he said, is based upon the fact that the American price for wheat is higher than the world price.

"We think it is worth while," said Legge, defending the board. "I do not know what the final outcome may be, but we feel it had been allowed to drop to 25 cents a bushel, and that is where it would be on the Liverpool market today, we would have had another series of bank failures and everything that goes with it."

Latest Equipment On New Fire Boat

(International News Service)
DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 21.—Detroit's new fire boat, the John Kendall is to be radio equipped to facilitate communication between the boat and fire department when the ship is out of communication with land. The first commissioner, Chas. F. Clipper, has announced. A permit has been asked of the federal radio commission to operate a 500 watt station of 1596 kilocycles, but it is expected the commission will reduce the power to 100 watts, the strength usually granted for such purposes.

Limped From Wound, Called It Neuritis

(International News Service)
HILLSDALE, Mich., Jan. 21.—A confederate bullet which Simon Pincus, 86 year old Brooklyn, Mich., Civil War veteran had unknowingly carried in his right leg for 67 years is one of the old soldier's proud possessions today. Pincus always attributed the limp in his leg to neuritis until an X-ray revealed the bullet. Then he recalled that he had been wounded in the leg at the battle at Fredericksburg in 1863. The bullet was removed at the Hillsdale City hospital.

NOTES OF TROOP
"F"
103RD CAVALRY
OF NEW CASTLE

The commander announced the Federal drill pay is expected any day at the armory. The reason for the delay is not known, but is probably caused by the inauguration of the new governor at Harrisburg.

Guardsmen are told to wear their melton uniforms and the complete regulation equipment at the drill inspection Friday evening, when Maj. Wolfe and Capt. Shelton will be in attendance.

The name of a new enlisted man will be announced shortly. There are still a few vacancies open to young men of exceptional character, who are interested in the work and progress of the outfit.

A letter has been received by the commander from Maj. Wolfe, who writes that he and Capt. Shelton will be present at the inspection and on Friday and also at the non commission school to be held in the armory on Thursday evening. At the last quarterly inspection the troop was given a mark of "A plus," and now the commander hopes the organization will merit an "AA" which means above average.

Capt. Bintrim and Lieuts. Reed and Mitchell are awaiting authority to use their transportation for Lewisburg on Sunday afternoon, to attend the meeting of second and third squadron officers. Maj. Wolfe will be the host.

The employment given to guardsmen at the stables and armory will greatly enhance the appearance of the organization's property and equipment.

Dr. Arthur D. Little Wins Medal For His Services To Chemistry

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—The Perkin Medal awarded annually to the American chemist who has most distinguished himself by his services to applied chemistry went this year to Dr. Arthur D. Little of Cambridge, Mass.

Dr. Little, a former president of the American Chemical Society, is a pioneer in the application of chemistry to industry. The organization of which he is president operates research and testing laboratories at Cambridge. In 1886 when Dr. Little opened a commercial laboratory in Boston, industry had not yet awakened to the importance of industrial chemistry.

Inventions by Dr. Little include processes for the manufacture of chrome tanned leather, chlorate of potash, cellulose acetate, smoke filters, newsprint from Southern woods and others dealing with the recovery of naval stores from lumbering wastes and vaporphase cracking of petroleum. He has made a specialty of the chemistry of cellulose, fibers, and paper making gas and petroleum.

Dr. Little has been influential in establishing the professional standing of chemists. His address on the occasion of the Centenary Celebration of the Franklin Institute, "The Fifth Estate," helped it is said, to bring new recognition to members of the scientific professions. He is the author of numerous other books and papers dealing with industrial chemistry and the importance of research.

Dr. Little was born in Boston sixty seven years ago. He was educated in Portland, Maine and New York City and was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1885. In 1918 the University of Pittsburgh conferred upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Chemistry. In 1929 the College of Technology, Manchester, England, made him an Honorary Associate and the University of Manchester conferred upon him an honorary degree of Doctor of Science.

Dr. Little organized the Natural

Religious Drama Tournament Plan For Local Churches

Program Being Arranged For Competition Among Churches Here

Representatives from 11 New Castle churches met Tuesday evening at the Y. W. C. A. to discuss the possibility of conducting a religious drama tournament among the churches of New Castle. Each church which wishes to participate in the project will prepare a one-act religious drama. On a given evening at a centrally located auditorium three of these one-act plays will be produced by three different churches. One week or so following the date of this performance three more churches will produce their plays in the same auditorium. This program will go on until each group taking part in the tournament has given its production.

The tournament has an educational and cultural aim. It aims to promote a high type of religious drama and to discover church groups in the city who see in the drama both an educational opportunity and a chance for deeper and more meaningful religious expression.

The plays for the tournament will be selected on the basis of the following definition for a religious drama: "A religious drama is one which sends the audience away exalted in spirit, deepened in its sense of fellowship with God and man, and enriched in its understanding of the spiritual forces which struggle in men's souls." Certainly the audience which witnesses plays of this nature is greatly benefited. This is not all, however; the greatest value comes to the actors who take part in such plays. If they learn to really live their parts they give themselves a discipline of putting themselves in others' places and looking at life through others' eyes; thus they develop their understanding and sympathy to appreciate the motives and purposes in the lives of their fellows.

Although the meeting held Tuesday evening was merely for the purpose of explaining the tournament so that the representatives could return to their respective churches to find out whether or not they would decide to participate, four of the churches stated that they had definitely decided to take up the project. Any of the churches in New Castle are eligible to take part in the tournament. Any group interested must get in touch with W. E. Flannery by calling 1627 at the earliest convenience.

At a meeting to be held in the New Castle public library at eight p. m. on Tuesday, Jan. 27, every group which has decided to participate in the project will be represented. At this time plays will be selected and dates for production will be set so that the work of preparing the plays may proceed during the month of February and so that the presentation of the dramas to the public may begin in March.

Represent Rotary At Special Dinner

Representing New Castle Rotary, President T. Wilbur McCullough and Secretary Carl E. Paisley went to Youngstown this morning for a dinner at noon in the Hotel Ohio honoring Chesley R. Perry, secretary of International Rotary.

The affair was under the auspices of the Youngstown club, but Rotarians from all over the district were expected to attend.

The railroads aren't so bad. They haven't even asked for a law limiting each automobile to one passenger.

Assessor Fails To Show Up At Revision Board

G. S. Dodds Of Union Township Absent And Property Owners Could Not Be Heard

G. S. Dodds, assessor in Union township, failed to appear at the court house this morning when the county commissioners, sitting as a board of appeals, took up the matter of valuations in Union township. According to reports made to the commissioners, Dodds has gone to California. As it was necessary to have him present to give his reasons for assessments over which there was a dispute, nothing could be done with the Union township valuations today. Action will be taken at some future date to be fixed by the commissioners.

There has been considerable dissatisfaction over the assessments made by Dodds in Union township. Several delegations of citizens have already visited the county commissioners to voice their protests. It is claimed that valuations are not uniform, that some have been made too high, and others too low. The commissioners would like to have had Dodds present to give his explanations and reasons for his valuations. They will wait a reasonable time in the hope that he may show up.

Township valuations as made by Assessor William McMahon, were considered today, but few complaints were registered. Tomorrow Washington and Wilmington townships will be considered and on the following day Wayne township. This will complete the townships of the county.

Guardian Seeks To Recover $3500

Suit By S. E. Patterson Against Mr. And Mrs. Ira Snyder On Trial At Court

The case of S. E. Patterson, guardian of Hiram Holliday, a former employee of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, now alleged to be of weak mind, against Mr. and Mrs. Ira Snyder is on trial before Judge Hildebrand today.

Mr. Holliday had roomed and boarded with the Snyders since 1929 and had been paying for his accommodations. After it was noticed that he was suffering from mental trouble Patterson was appointed guardian to look after Holliday's estate.

Patterson learned that in addition to his payments for room and board Holliday had given the Snyders $3,500. On the witness stand today Patterson testified that he had talked with Holliday regarding this $3,500 and that Holliday had told him that Snyder had informed him that a mortgage was due on his property and that he could not raise the money to pay it. Holliday claimed that Snyder had been very insistent that Holliday draw his money out of the bank and give it to him. This Holliday did. He said that at the time Snyder had given him a paper, but he did not know what was in it and that he expected to get a mortgage.

Snyders maintain that there was a fair understanding with Holliday that if the money was paid to them that they would agree to take care of Mr. Holliday for the balance of his life. The question involved is whether or not at the time the money was given to Snyders Holliday was in a fit mental condition to make a contract. A number of Pennsylvania officials who were acquainted with Holliday are witnesses in the case.

Court Is Asked To Give Verdict In Stated Case

Papers were filed at the prothonotary's office this morning in a stated case of Morris Newmark against Constable DeGraff Robinson. The case is one in which Robinson sold a pool room of George and Joseph Chipolins on a landlord's warrant issued by Newmark. The amount received was $279.96. Robinson's net costs of $21.12, or $258.84 net proceeds.

George Chipolins, Sr., who was employed as janitor and to do odd jobs about the pool room, has put in a claim for wages amounting to $200. Upon the facts as presented the court is asked to give a special verdict as to the validity of the claim of George Chipolins, who is Delayed Two Years.

The dedication, which has been delayed for more than two years during and since construction of the memorial at Marion, will be held some time after May 15, and before Sept. 1, the White House said.

Frelinghuysen's call at the White House followed an intimation by the White House several weeks ago that the president would go to Marion to dedicate the Harding memorial provided an official invitation were extended.

Some of Mr. Harding's friends expressed bewilderment at the intimation. They said they understood formal invitations had been given to President Coolidge during his term in office and to President Hoover when he succeeded Mr. Coolidge.

Since then negotiations with President Hoover have been re-opened and today's announcement, it is believed, would dissipate what misunderstanding has existed.

No mother need be told what a wonderful health-builder cod-liver oil is. But how to make children take cod-liver oil is the question. And that's what Jackie McVay, pictured above, can answer for you. Jackie doesn't like plain cod-liver oil. When his mother comes round with the bottle, he's out of sight.

So, when we called on Jackie's mother recently, at 193 Mason St., Greenwich, Conn., she gladly consented to let him try Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil. Jackie took a spoonful. Then he grinned. "Say, I like this a lot!"

Daisy Devoe To Soon Know Fate

Indications Point To California Jury Getting Case Against Girl Today

CLARA BOW NOT ABLE TO ATTEND

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 21.—

The jury of seven men and five women who have listened to volumes of testimony of hectic episodes in Hollywood life today expected to be given the case of Miss Daisy DeVoe, the blonde secretary who is on trial for embezzling from her employer, Clara Bow.

Court was adjourned late yesterday after Prosecutor David H. Clark, in giving the final argument for the state, branded Miss DeVoe a perjurer and blackmailer and charged that she had betrayed the trust placed in her by the screen's red-headed "It" girl.

Nathan Freeman, Miss DeVoe's attorney, will sum up the case for the defense today after which the fate of Miss DeVoe is expected to be entrusted to the middle-aged jurors. Miss DeVoe, charged with the theft of $15,300 from her former employer, can be sent to the penitentiary for from one to ten years.

Branded as Thief.
Prosecutor Clark in his short argument to the jury accused the blonde secretary of going everywhere with Miss Bow as a companion.

"Yet in reality she was a thief stealing from Miss Bow right and left," he argued.

Rex Bell, movie cowboy friend of Miss Bow, and Alfred Mathes, the fiancé of Miss DeVoe, gave the final testimony. Bell asserted he did not have Daisy dismissed from Miss Bow's employ while Mathes testified that Miss DeVoe had made him a present of some silk lounging pajamas at the suggestion of Miss Bow who paid $150 for this gift.

Miss Bow was not in court, her physicians reporting that a severe cold was keeping her at home.

Miss DeVoe testified that the screen star's trust fund contained only $30,000 when she first entered Miss Bow's employ, but last November the figure stood at $227,000 due to Daisy's management. She said she had "arranged it so that Clara could not touch it."

Employment Given To Troop Members

Sergt. Stewart Forsakes Canton Job To Direct Work Of Local Guardsmen

Unemployment among members of Troop F, local unit of the 103rd cavalry, Pennsylvania National Guard, has been alleviated, officers and citizen sponsors of the outfit believe, following the employment of 12 guardsmen on Tuesday.

When it was learned recently that nearly a score of the members were out of employment the officers and sponsors, the latter including the citizens' civilian committee, made arrangements to find jobs for them. At present, according to a report from the Neshannock avenue armory, the crew of 12 is given work to do in the armory and west side stables. The work consists of repairing the troop property, cleaning equipment and taking care of the troop horses.

There are believed to be 18 guardsmen in need of work. The work is divided into shifts in order to include all who seek employment.

The job on the property is being supervised by Sergeant Lee W. Stewart. Stewart recently prepared to leave for Canton, O., where he had secured a position with a steel company. A chance to take the troop job here was offered him and he decided to remain in New Castle.

Save In Spite Of Depression

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Jan. 21.—Although business continued on a downward course and the number of unemployed increased by two millions during 1930, deposits in German savings banks increased by 14 billion marks, reflecting a sound sense of economy of the German nation.

Total deposits with public savings banks at the end of the year amounted to 104 billion marks.

Compared to an increase of deposits by two billion marks in 1929, last year's savings show a decline of 600 million marks which is mainly due to the general business depression. Before the war the average growth of savings deposits per year was 800 million marks. The growth of savings deposits in 1930 is, therefore, greater than before the war.

Tuesday Is First Day Of New Feature For Girls At Y. W. C. A. Gymnasium

Members of the health education committee and executives of the local Y. W. C. A. are confident that the Tuesday afternoon recreation hour for young women, inaugurated yesterday, will develop into one of the most popular of Y. W. C. A. movements.

There is a widespread interest in the recreational hour and the initial meeting yesterday afternoon was most gratifying. It is believed that in several weeks the number of young women taking part in this Tuesday class will increase tremendously.

Miss Caroline Streeter, executive secretary of the health education department, was in charge of the Tuesday afternoon group, assisted by Miss Mary Snyder, Miss Jean Twaddle, Miss Ruth Fink and Miss Nellie Dyer.

All the girls who were present are planning to bring more girls to the next Tuesday gym period. Various teams will be organized, special activities arranged and all who attend are guaranteed healthful enjoyable exercise that will be most beneficial.

No fee is charged by the Y. W. C. A. for instruction and use of the gymnasium and membership in the association is not necessary.

Two Of New Appointments Will Head Bureaus In Executive Department

The governor named Duncan MacCallum, Leechburg, as director of personnel to succeed A. Nevin Detrich, Philadelphia. MacCallum is the American Legion commander in the 27th district. He served two years in the A. E. F. and 16 months in the French army.

Trains Moving On Regular Schedules Thru Heavy Snows

Passenger Service Not Affected From Drifting In Northern Areas

At Ashtabula, O., three to four inches of snow fell while Albion, Pa., awoke to find nine or ten inches covering the ground. Reports said the automobile roads as well as sections of the railroad right-of-ways were slightly drifted.

Regular crews of the E. & A. division, Pennsylvania lines, were standing ready to tackle any emergency drift job, something which hasn't been necessary on the division for several years.

NORTH LOUP, Neb., Jan. 21.—Nebraska's newest bid for the "world's largest" title comes from a farmer north of here.

A stack of alfalfa hay a quarter of a mile long and containing 800 tons of hay has been put up on a farm in Valley county. Twelve hundred head of cattle will be fed from it this winter.

Crop statisticians estimate that if all the alfalfa produced in the state last year could be put in one stack, it would be 80 miles long.

A Harmless Prescription, but How it Moves the bowels!

DON'T you want this way of making the bowels behave? A doctor's way to make the bowels move so well that you feel better all over! Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin doesn't turn everything to water, but cleans out all that hard waste clogging your system. It cleans you out without any shock, for it's only fresh laxative herbs a famous doctor found so good for the bowels combined with pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients.

A doctor should know what is best for the bowels. Let Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin show you how soon you can train the bowels to move freely, every day, the way they should. It's wonderful the way this prescription works, but it's perfectly harmless, so you can use it whenever a coated tongue or sick headache gives warning that you are bilious. Fine for children, too (it tastes so nice) and they ought to have a spoonful the minute they seem fretful, feverish, or sluggish, or become stuffed up with a cold.

You can get the original prescription Dr. Caldwell wrote so many years ago; your druggist keeps it all ready in big bottles. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and use it any time anyone in the family is constipated.

The Unseen Value That Makes The New Ford a Fine Car

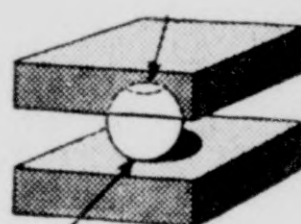

Large number of ball and roller bearings reduces friction and wear and gives greater reliability and economy

YOU step into the new Ford, press your foot on the starter and away you go. Smoothly, evenly, it carries you along your way, for many thousands of miles each year. You have no fear of mechanical trouble and you accept its good performance as a matter of course. You have confidence that it will serve you faithfully and well under all conditions.

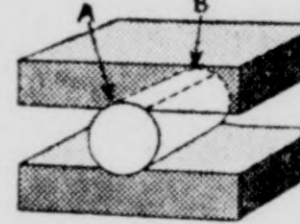

Though you may never lift the hood of your car, it is interesting to know some of the reasons for the reliability of the Ford and its economy of operation and up-keep. The extensive use of ball and roller bearings is an example of the quality that has been built into it.

These ball and roller bearings—and there are more than twenty of them in the new Ford—allow moving parts to run smoothly and freely, thus reducing friction and wear to a minimum. To you as a car owner, this means smooth, quiet mechanical operation, more speed and power, increased gasoline mileage, greater durability and longer life.

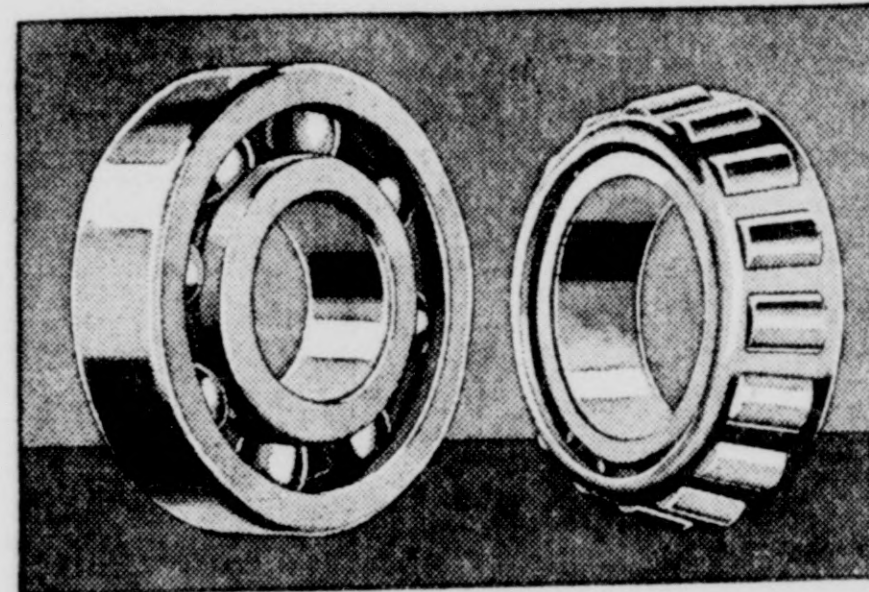

The function of the ball and roller bearings of the new Ford is similar to that of the jewels in a watch. Since they are placed at every point in the chassis where they are needed to prevent friction, the new Ford may be called a full-jeweled car, in the same sense that a fine watch is full-jeweled.

This simple illustration shows how the ball bearings in the new Ford minimize friction by reducing the contact surface between moving parts.

Roller bearings are used in the new Ford wherever a wide bearing surface is needed. The contact is along the entire line marked A and B.

Examples of the type of ball and roller bearings used in the new Ford. There are more than twenty in all—an unusually large number. They play an important part in the smooth, efficient performance of the new Ford and contribute to its reliability, economy and long life.

As important as the number of ball and roller bearings in the new Ford is their adequate size, and the manner in which each type has been selected for the work it has to do.

Ball bearings are used where their ball-shaped construction will give the greatest smoothness and efficiency. Roller bearings are used wherever a larger bearing surface is needed to carry a heavier load. The deciding factor as to which type shall be used is what is best for the car and for Ford owners.

Steering is made easier and safer in the new Ford because of the roller bearings in the front wheels, at the spindle bolts and in the steering mechanism. There are ball bearings on the clutch and ball and roller bearings in the transmission. A roller bearing on the drive shaft at the universal joint provides perfect alignment of those vital parts and prevents loss of power. Adjustments on the rear axle, pinion and differential are made unnecessary by the close limits to which those roller bearings are held. The ball bearing on the generator gives greater reliability to that important part of the electrical system.

The value of the large number of ball and roller bearings in the new Ford is especially apparent after the first year. By reducing wear, they also reduce the cost of up-keep and the need of replacement parts.

In many other parts of the new Ford you find this same high quality of materials and fine craftsmanship in manufacture. The performance of the car under the severest driving conditions reflects the value that has been built into it.

Just A Touch Of Ice-Mint. PRESTO!

Corns Withers and Lift Out With Fingers. No Pain

Corn sufferers gather round, get right up close and listen, here's good news for you.

The real genuine "Corn Killer" is here at last. No humbug. Ice-Mint the new discovery made from a Japanese product is said to surely and quickly end all foot misery. Think of it, only a touch or two of that cooling, soothing Ice-Mint and real foot joy is yours. No pain, not a bit of soreness, either when applying it or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

It just makes a pair of tired, swollen, aching, burning feet glow with cooling comfort. Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also toughened callouses, just shrivel right up and lift off so easy it's wonderful.

Every foot sufferer can appreciate a treatment like this, especially women who wear high heel shoes and men who are obliged to stand on their feet all day.

Try it. Just ask in any drug store for Ice-Mint and learn for yourself what solid foot comfort really is. There is nothing like it.

A JOURNEY TO VENUS

Being An Account Of A Flight Through Space From
The Earth To The Planet Venus

By S. S. MYERS

CHAPTER VIII

Then Dr. Swartz announced that we were drifting gradually earthward. This relieved the tension somewhat for we knew that if we continued to drift toward the earth all might still be well with us.

Gradually, day by day, the earth grew larger, and we began to feel relieved. Our only hope now was to get within its attraction, for we knew that we still had a sufficient supply of rockets to check our speed as we drew near.

Thus we continued to drift until we drew near the orbit of the moon and discovered that body approaching us. Professor Scharwenski had calculated that we would again cross the orbit of the moon when it would be on the opposite side of the earth, but the loss of our propelling power had upset his calculations. Gradually the moon approached and, to my intense relief, passed between us and the earth. It was then that we had an opportunity to view what a mortal man had never seen before—the side of the moon turned away from the earth. Being only 40,000 miles away from it, we had a splendid view of that mysterious hemisphere. We observed that it appeared to be more evenly rounded than the side next to the earth and less rugged. In fact the moon is shaped something like an egg, with the small end pointed toward the earth. But our interest in the topography of the moon was quickly forgotten when we discovered that we were being drawn toward it!

"This is what I feared," said Scharwenski. "We are within the attraction of the moon and will no doubt approach it in the form of a hyperbola. In that case we know what to do."

We actually did circle the moon and as we came around toward the earth Scharwenski set the rocket machinery in motion and we shot away toward the earth. We had overcome the attraction of the moon and were headed again toward our destination. As soon as this was accomplished the rockets were shut off and we continued to drift in the right direction.

"How much rocket power do we still have?" inquired Scharwenski of the mechanics.

"Almost enough to last two hours," was the reply.

"That is sufficient to slow up as we approach the earth."

We all felt greatly relieved when we escaped the moon, and began to look forward to the end of our great adventure. Gradually we began to feel the gravitational pull of the earth and our speed increased rapidly and here, as on our approach to Venus, we began to take on weight, with a feeling of being drawn toward the front of our ship.

When about half way between the moon's orbit and the earth we noticed that we were no longer drifting toward the earth. We were beginning to drift around it! Scharwenski again set the rocket machinery in motion and headed our ship directly toward the pale blue surface. The earth soon began to sink beneath us. It was then that our pilot brought the reverse rocket tubes into action. Nevertheless we continued to approach rapidly and finally plunged into the outer atmosphere with a noise that sounded like the rushing of water. The rockets were shut off and the gas-line engines started, and our ship was brought to a horizontal position. Then, for the first time since coming within the earth's gravitation, we gained our equilibrium and were enabled to stand upright on the floor of our ship.

Steering our ship upward, away from the earth soon diminished our speed, after which we planned slantingly toward the surface and found ourselves directly over a large body of water.

A petition asking that Farrell be divided into two wards and five voting precincts instead of five as now arranged was filed here today by Ben Marks city solicitor, Judge J. A. McLaughlin appointed Harry Grober, Lloyd Newton and Ben Marks, of Farrell as commissioners to make report March 2.

A higher standard of work and teaching in the schools of Mercer county than in many others of the state is the verdict of Dr. Howard Boucher of the state board who recently made an inspection of high schools at Grove City, Mercer, West Middlesex and Hickory.

The educator announced himself as very delighted with the high standards in education reached by the Mercer schools where he made careful inspection.

County Farm Agent W. S. Hagar is attending the state products show at Harrisburg. Prefacing this event Mr. Hagar attended a meeting of farm agents held at State College.

Dog license sales at the office of the county treasurer is an affair of no small moment at the present time. To date 4200 licenses have been written. The 1930 record shows 6200 for January. The 1931 sales will go that number if not more. So far the big day was January 15th when 800 were written by Treasurer G. R. McQuiston and his two assistants.

Twelve have signed pleas of guilt for Sheriff Dan Callahan and are held in the county jail waiting sentences. The jail roll totals 106 with 18 of the number women. The number of women jailed in 1930 breaks all county records. The average has been around ten for the year.

Says Farmers Are Weathering Storm

Coming Through Depression Better Than Other Classes At Present

(Special To The News)
GROVE CITY, Jan. 21—Farmers as a class have sustained the national business depression better than any other group of workers is the opinion of John Glenn inspector for the Pennsylvania, Maryland and Ohio-Pennsylvania land banks that have loans on properties in the states indicated.

Glenn has just returned from an inspection tour of 600 farms in this territory. The average mortgage per farm would be $3,000 he says.

Out of this large number the farmers failing to meet payments of interest and principal are so few as to be almost negligible. The payments are being met in face of lowest prices on farm products for 20 years plus a drought condition of this summer that breaks any previous record.

The aim of the drive had been set at $75,000 which is said to be the total amount needed but was reduced due to the prevailing business depression.

CHAFING AT THE DELAY, THE BARON DECIDED NOT TO WAIT FOR A COMMISSION, AND IN FEBRUARY SET OUT TO JOIN WASHINGTON'S ARMY AT ITS BLEAK WINTER QUARTERS AT VALLEY FORGE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—"If I ever fought again—"

Jack Dempsey smiled across the room at his wife, Estelle Taylor, the screen star, as he said it—

"If I ever fought again and I could pick my opponent I'd select Primo Carnera," he declared. "I always liked those big fellows."

Jess Willard and Luis Firpo were big fellows.

Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey, now married six years and apparently as happy a couple as when the wedding bells rang, sat in their suite at a hotel here today and talked at length with the writer about Dempsey's glum past, his future, the question of whether he will ever fight again and various other matters, including the subject of how to be happy though married.

Is Grand Husband
Once when Jack left the room for a minute, Miss Taylor, with all the enthusiasm of a bride, exclaimed: "Jack's a grand husband, simply grand."

On a table were two bouquets of flowers that Jack had just given her.

Mrs. Dempsey was asked if there was any truth in a story published recently to the effect that Dempsey was eager to box Max Schmeling for the title but that she had put her foot down on the idea of him ever fighting again.

"Ridiculous," she asserted. "I would never try to tell Jack what to do. I never have tried to tell him his business. He is able to think for himself."

Keeping In Shape
Dempsey was asked if the fact that he has been training at Artie McGovern's gymnasium means that he was getting ready for a comeback in the ring. He said no, that he was merely trying to keep in good physical shape.

The former heavyweight champion wore a light blue lounge robe. His left hand was bandaged. It seems a carbunkle broke out on one of his fingers and became infected. He doctored it off and on for an hour.

Dempsey was asked if there was any truth in a printed rumor that he had been offered $750,000 to fight Schmeling but that he had turned it down because Mrs. Dempsey was opposed to re-entering the ring.

Recently Lost $25,000
"I never received such an offer," he said. "And furthermore, Estelle has never objected to me fighting anybody, anytime."

I asked Dempsey how much he lost in his investment in the Ensenda gambling resort venture in Mexico, and, with characteristic frankness, he replied:

"Not much, about $25,000." Dempsey doesn't regard "25 grand" as a great deal, in view of all he has made, and the fact that he has been making important money for the past year as a referee. He gets as high as $3,000 and $5,000 for a single appearance.

"I like refereeing because it keeps me in the fight game," said Dempsey. "I like to get around and meet my friends all over the country."

Titans Limited To 16 Games Is Reason For Row

Original Schedule Of Westminster Did Not Include Games With Duquesne

There is no new development in the Duquesne-Westminster controversy, outside of the fact that two schools will not meet in basketball this year. Relations have been severed.

When the Titan program was first drawn up it did not include any games with the Dukes, according to word from the Faculty Committee, which was unaware that negotiations had been opened for a series of games.

It was the plan of the Faculty Committee to limit the schedule to 16 games. A suggestion was made by Graduate Manager Andy McDonald that the Dukes be added to the program, but the committee never sanctioned the additional games to the original 16 game program. It seems that suitable dates could not be arranged.

NEW CASTLE-BUTLER HIGH GAME IS IMPORTANT ONE

Fans Will See Two Undeclared Schoolboy Teams In Action Here On Friday Night

Leadership Of Section Three Of W. P. I. A. L. For Season Will Be At Stake

Having toppled a formidable opponent in Section Three of the W. P. I. A. L. league when they defeated Ellwood City High on Tuesday night, the New Castle high school Red and Black clad passers start practice this afternoon at senior high gym in preparation for their hardest contest so far this season on Friday night at senior high floor against Butler high will take the floor against Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh's quintet.

Both Teams Undeclared.
Butler high with one of the smoothest aggregations in the history of that school, plays here Friday with an impressive record. To date the Butlers have rode through every opponent in Section Three and several other teams which were non-league affairs. Plans are being made by the visiting town to send a big delegation of fans to see their quintet either take possession of first place in the schoolboy race or to receive its first setback of the present season.

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh will send his cagers against the Soap Miners with a record that is equal to the Butlers in every way. The local quintet to date has won ten contests and has yet to be subdued. Like Butler, New Castle is fighting for possession of first place.

This contest ranks as one of the most important in this district in that two undefeated teams play for possession of first place in one of the sections of the W. P. I. A. L. The invaders fresh from their victory over Ellwood City last Saturday started practice Monday afternoon in preparation for this battle.

Local fandom is getting ready to see one of the best floor games at the local hardwood court this season. Opinions appear to be divided as to the possible winner. Many can see no one but New Castle while others are doubtful whether the senior high boys can keep the splendid "floor record" unblemished.

The question of "How Good New Castle" should be answered next Friday night due to the fact that Butler is ranked as one of the best schoolboy five in the W. P. I. A. L. league this season. A victory for either team will put it in first place.

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner is making arrangements to take care of the biggest crowd to watch a basketball contest at senior high gym this season. The contest will start at 8:00 o'clock.

"Pops" Harrison Praised As Crafty Floor Coach

Former Iowa University Athlete Has Already Made Good At Westminster

His Titan Basketball Team Is Winning Tough Games—Keen Student Of Game

The Titans, with two styles of offense taught by Harrison, have defeated Grove City, Allegheny, Waynesburg, and Slippery Rock in college games and have also defeated four of the best independent floor teams of the district in practice games. In each contest, the Harrison machine has been able to tally more field goals than its rival five.

Harrison was a freshman coach and a physical education instructor at Iowa for two years following his graduation, so his present position is his first head coaching job. But his experience as all-conference forward and later as a guard on the Big Ten championship Iowa team has been taught to his Westminster players so that they are already cutting quite a figure in the district title race.

"Pops" is a keen student of basketball, and is without a doubt one of the best informed court mentors in the whole section even though he is the youngest coach. He is maintaining the fine record made by Westminster teams in the last five years, and it would not surprise followers of Westminster to see his team among the leaders at the end of the season.

The Tartans have only been defeated once this season, while the Pitties have suffered three set-backs.

"Pops" who was graduated from the University of Iowa but two years ago after starring in basketball, football, and baseball, came to Westminster this year. With only two first-team members from last year's Titan quintet, Harrison took substitutes and freshmen, all comparatively green, and built up a team

Ellwood Loses To New Castle

County Seat Invaders Too Fast For Ellwood
Score 35-14

IMMENSE CROWD WITNESSES GAME

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 21.—A packed Lincoln gymnasium of about 1500 people watched the clockwork movements of New Castle high school administer a crushing defeat to the Ellwood high cagers last night. Score, 35-14.

The local five was outclassed in every department of the game. They could in no way check the exact clicking of the invaders. Indeed, it was a sight to observe the diversified attack of New Castle function so precisely. Waino, Rowe and McAuley just couldn't be stopped. This was their last game with their old rivals, and so they went on a rampage. Always one of them was in the scoring roll. Waino seemed to be possessed, sinking shots from every angle of the floor with one hand or the other. The result of this game leaves New Castle and Butler tied for sectional honors, which will be decided next Friday night.

The game opened with careful guarding by both teams. There was no scoring for a short period and it seemed as if it was going to be an exciting game. Waino started the scoring for the invaders, which was the signal for more. Ellwood accounted for a one-point deficit from the charity line and made the contest more interesting. Then Waino repeated his act with a sensational shot from the side lines, the quarter immediately ending with the score standing 5-1 for New Castle.

In the ensuing period Ellwood tried to penetrate the invaders' zone defense but was not very successful. The visitors continued adding to their lead. They outscored the locals 7-3 in this period, making the score 12-4 in their favor. It was in this period that Dudick intercepted a pass and dribbled the length of the floor and caged a basket. This was the only bright light for Ellwood for the half.

The third quarter started out with Zeigler being ousted from the fray upon fouling Waino, who counted up four fouls awarded him. The visitors' offense continued functioning and the score rolling up, collecting 11 points in this period to four for the home team. New Castle was exceptionally good in counting up points from the charity line, completing eight out of 14 tries. The score stood at the end of this period 22-8 for the Bridesbaugh machine.

In the last stanza New Castle continued their policy of outscoring the home team by getting 12 points to six for Ellwood. In this period Coach Bridesbaugh gave other members of the squad a chance at their opponents. This game lacked the thrills as was expected, because of the game being one-sided. Also in this period Uram was forced to leave the game via the foul route. But this did not seem to hinder the style of play of the visitors. Score at the final whistle was 35-14.

Cleveland Gives Sewell Release

Veteran Joey Sewell Given His Release By Indians—Comes As Surprise

HIS 1930 WORK NOT PLEASING

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—One by one the diamond stars of yesterday are passing out of the picture.

Closing on the heels of the release of Hank DeBerry by Brooklyn to the Oakland Club in a deal for a younger catcher, came the news late yesterday that another veteran, Joe Sewell, had been released unconditionally by the Cleveland Indians.

The little Cleveland infielder joins the list of DeBerry, Eddie Moore, George Sisler, Jack Quinn and other old timers who have been dropped from the big time circuit since the close of the 1930 season. And since the minor leagues have accepted the revised universal draft as demanded by the Majors—the International and Three-Eye circuits fell in line yesterday—indications are that other veterans will be released. Now that the big league clubs will be able to obtain young replacements, they can afford to let the old timers go.

Of course there are several Major league teams that could use Sewell. He is only thirty two years old, batted 299 last season and was topped in the fielding averages only by McManus, Eliege and Dykes among the regular American League third basemen.

But figures, as far as fielding averages go, do not tell the story of Sewell's 1930 record. Joey was "playing on a dime," and many grounders went whistling past him that he would have stopped in his prime.

The two Jacks are at it again trying to trump each other, but this time it's somebody else's card game. Two other fellows are holding the big poker hands in the current heavyweight game and the battle of the Vocabulary, now being staged by the Messrs. Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey is just a pretty picture with sound effect.

Dempsey says out loud in print that if there is one guy left in this world that he feels he can still plaster with his old one-two it's the boy friend up in Boston, the aforementioned J. Sharkey, Esq.

Now, no one can say things like that about the Gabby Gorb as long as Sharkey retains a full power of his tonsils, and fail to get an answer. The Gorb shoots from the lip quick: "Oh, yeah? Well, I'll meet Herr Demp in six weeks if he wants to mill."

The Old Man Mauler counters with a roar of mirth. "Six weeks?" he chorles. "And me in my condition! Why the boy is a positive comedian!"

There goes the bell—thank heaven!

We hope, kind reader, that you have enjoyed the first round of the great battle for the heavyweight conversational championship of the world. We suspect that it was largely held for your benefit. It made good reading and it kept the names

Yale's Quintet In Second Place

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 21.—Yale clinched undisputed claim to second place in the intercollegiate basketball league today. They registered a 37 to 26 victory at the expense of the University of Pennsylvania quintet last night.

It was the Ellmen's second straight triumph over the invaders, scoring their first victory three weeks ago on the Quaker's court, 26 to 25, in an overtime contest.

The victory pulled Yale away from Dartmouth, trailing in third place by a half game. Columbia, the defending champion, is leading.

Kiwanians Hear About Own Work

Wm. Steele Conducts Class On Knowledge Of Aims And Ideals Of Club

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 21.—At an exceptionally interesting meeting, Ellwood City Kiwanians, at their meeting last night, presented a program that was unique. It was in the nature of a school room class examination with six or seven of the leading Kiwanians taking the role of pupils and William Steele acting as teacher.

The examination was conducted along the line of queries as to what the pupils knew about the aims, ideals and purposes of Kiwanis. City Superintendent of Schools W. Ray Smith, in his replies to questions being regarded as without a flaw.

Some of the aims of Kiwanians as developed during the progress of this educational night program were shown to be interest in the underprivileged child and his problems, promotion of intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship, practice of the golden rule in business, vocational guidance and placement of youths, and fostering of better relations between the farmer and the city man.

The Kiwanians enjoyed the session immensely, and it is indicated that programs following somewhat the general lines may be adopted for some future meetings.

No Traffic Delay On Highways Today

Wind Sweeps Much Of Roadway Clear Of Snow—Bus Schedules Are Maintained

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 21.—Traffic on the highways in the vicinity of Ellwood City was not so bad this morning, as last night.

The high wind and the dry snow combined to sweep the snow off the highways to a considerable extent, and the work of the highway department in ashing the hills and clearing drifted places, made the roads easily passable today.

Bus schedules were maintained, and motorists and truck drivers had little difficulty in keeping up normal progress today.

The Decision

The court held against Bidge. The judges reasoned thus: An action like that cannot be instituted unless it is proved that certain damages arose from that statement. Imputation of a loathsome disease might be held actionable because it makes the one who is spoken about the subject of disgust, but the same cannot be said of calling a man crazy.

Flood Of Profit Taking Features Market Session

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—A flood of profit taking and professional selling in the second hour of a dull session today blocked the progress of a rally in the active Industrial and Utility stocks. Prices spurted at the start, under the stimulus of a further 2 per cent gain in Steel output, bringing current production to 46 per cent of mill capacity. United States Steel pushed ahead to 141½ and Auburn Auto in which the shorts are believed to be "locked up," advanced 4 points to 114.

From the low levels of last Friday many of the market leaders have advanced 2 to 5 points, thus placing them in an inviting position for profit taking. Due to the predominance of professional trading at this time, with the public on the side-lines, it was natural that profit taking should flow in.

New advances of 1 to 2½ points were scored by a number of the best New York Central, Southern Railway and Southern Pacific, stocks of the Gas and Electric Light companies were generally inclined to the higher levels with only fractional price changes.

The Amusement stocks were also active and firm with Radio Keith, General Theatres, Fox and Loews at the best levels on the move. Westinghouse was again the outstanding weak spot, falling off about 2 points to 84½ and General Electric broke fractionally under 43.

The Grain and Cotton markets were quiet, the former taking its cue from the stronger cables. Call money was unchanged at 1½ per cent.

Circus Owner's Suit Is Denied

Tom Mix, Famous Cowboy, Of Movies Will Not Pay Big Damage Suit

(International News Service) NATCHEZ, Miss., Jan. 21.—Tom Mix, film cowboy, did not swipe a 20-year-old horse named "Boloney" and he won't have to pay $50,000 damages for alleged breach of contract to Col. Zach T. Miller, owner of the 161 Ranch Shows, it has been decided here today.

At least, Chancellor H. W. Cutler technically decided the movie star had not stolen "Boloney," as charged by Col. Miller, when he denied the circus owner's suit.

At the same time Chancellor Cutler dismissed a cross bill filed by Mix against Col. Miller asking for $150,000 damages for alleged statements of Miller concerning the contract suit.

Col. Miller, in the suit here, claimed Mix had made an agreement to appear with his circus in 1929, but had failed to join the show.

New Discovery May Benefit Forecasts Of Future Weather

Dr. C. G. Abbot, Asks For Continuance Of Appropriations For Science

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—A remarkable scientific discovery, which may make possible forecasting weather for seasons—possibly years—in advance, has been discovered by Dr. C. G. Abbot of the Smithsonian Institution, he revealed in hearings of the house appropriations committee, made public today.

The condition of the sun is the secret, Dr. Abbot said in discussing continuance of appropriations for the Astrophysical Observatory.

Years of study of the sun has convinced him there are periodical changes in the sun—and these changes are followed by certain kinds of weather, Dr. Abbot explained.

Theatre Guild Players Ready For Benefit Comedy Show—ing At 8:15

At 8:15 o'clock tonight, in the Senior High school auditorium, the curtain will rise for "Is Zat So," three-act benefit comedy being given by the talented cast of the New Castle Civic Theatre Guild, and probably the most comical production to be enacted by a dramatic group here in some time.

A final dress rehearsal last night topped things off, and today the players eagerly await the starting hour. Capable characters will appear as leads, supported by probably the most competent and best-suited cast that ever has made a guild appearance.

By attending the performance tonight, which by the way, will be repeated Thursday, one might feel satisfied to know that his contributions will so to aid the local unemployed. Mayor Gillespie's civic committee on relief will get the proceeds.

"Is Zat So" marks another of the plays which are being given at intervals by the guild group. "This Think Called Love" was its last offering.

Start Judging At State Farm Show Of All Livestock

Twelve Organizations Open Their Meetings Today —Show Is Very Busy Place

NEW FEATURE TO BE HELD TONIGHT

Estimate Fully 50,000 Attended Both Day And Night Sessions On Tuesday

By H. E. MYERS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—With a score of meetings scheduled in addition to judging in all livestock classes, the State farm show today swung into what promised to be its busiest session of the week.

Twelve organizations opened their meetings shortly after 10 o'clock, and eight others were to meet tonight for business sessions in connection with the show.

The semi-final round in the state championship horse shoe pitching tourney opened with Stewart Straw, of Clearfield county, in the lead with a record of 15 straight victories in the qualifying tosses. Finals will start tonight, and the champion will be named by Frank R. Niven, Rochester, N. Y.

Richard Fulmer, of Indiana county, was second high man with a dozen victories and two defeats.

Two Sale Sessions

Though most of the sales are slated for Friday, closing day of the mammoth exposition, two sale sessions in the swine division were on the program today. This morning, exhibitors of Berkshire sows trotted out their animals for the inspection of purchasers and a sale of Chester white sows is slated to be held this afternoon.

Tonight, one of the new features of the show will get under way when three granges will present one-act plays as the first part of the dramatic tournament. The associations playing tonight are:

Georgetown Grange, Berks county; Berwick Grange, Columbia county; and the Freemont Grange, Chester county.

Yesterday, Deputy Secretary of Agriculture R. G. Bressler said, was the "biggest farm show Tuesday ever," with 50,000 persons attending the day and evening session. Despite the interest roused by inauguration of Governor Pinchot, the farm show building was crowded throughout the day.

Professors Heard

Lectures by four members of the Pennsylvania State College faculty were a big drawing point at the show today.

Dr. F. P. Weaver, head of the department of agricultural economics, spoke on factors causing important changes in local markets, enumerating good roads, increase of motor vehicles and development of competition from greater distances as the outstanding factors in such changes.

Insect control was discussed by H. E. Hodgkins, extension entomologist, and Dr. R. S. Kirby, extension plant pathologist, presented a summary of the apple disease situation for 1930 in the state.

Use of tree bands to control the codling moth was explained by H. N. Worthley, experimental entomologist.

Strain On Germany Must Be Lessened

Former Ambassador Gerard, Says World-Wide Bolshevism May Result

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—World-wide Bolshevism may result if the economic strain on Germany is not lessened in the opinion of James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany.

He said in a talk here last night that if Germany adopted the economic of bolshevism, France and then England would be forced to follow and the United States would have difficulty in avoiding the same step.

Gerard said that although he could not advocate wiping out of war debts, he felt that the German situation was a greater menace to the economic system than was generally realized.

Public Hearings Being Held For Maternity Bill

Fight Being Waged By Representatives Of Score Of Women's Organizations

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—With the house interstate commerce committee holding public hearings on maternity and infancy bill, a fight is being waged behind the scenes leading to the White House.

Representatives of a score of women organizations, who are backing the proposed appropriation of $1,000,000 a year, to be matched by states, are at the same time fighting against transfer of the work from the children's bureau of the labor department to the public health service.

The bill of Sen. Jones (R) of Washington, already passed by the senate, provides $1,000,000 for five years, leaving control of the fund with Miss Grace Abbott, head of the children's bureau.

Another bill, sponsored by Rep. Cooper (R) of Ohio, provides $1,000,000 for five years, giving jurisdiction to both the children's bureau and the public health service, but after the five-year period transfers control to the public health service.

Sees Big Business Increasing Power

(International News Service)

BERKELEY, Cal., Jan. 21.—Big business or groups of men who are essentially merchants are destined for greater power in the next two decades, according to Professor Max Radin of the University of California school of jurisprudence.

He says this group will probably experience an increase in power in the United States as regards law and government, and if the country is not to suffer, these groups must be actuated by the highest ideals, not only of business but of society.

In a recent essay, "The Lawful Pursuit of Gain," Prof. Radin says: "The world has not yet recovered from the economic and social disaster of four years of wanton destruction. What the face of the world will be within the next two decades, those may tell who know. But in the United States there will very likely be an increase of the power now wielded in respect of law as of government, by organizations which are essentially groups of merchants."

Labor Leader Has New Plan For Aid To Unemployment

William H. Green Says Wages
Must Be Increased To Expedite Relief

(International News Service)

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 21.—One of the causes of unemployment may be traced to a small increase in wages compared to the increase in production, in the opinion of William H. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Speaking here last night at the closing session of the executive officers of the federation, Green said that in the last few years wages had increased only ten per cent, while production was boosted fifty per cent.

Greene urged employers to adopt the five or four day work program in order to give jobs to a larger number and said that women and children should be removed from positions if men who could do their work were not employed.

He attacked corporations which he said had paid large dividends to "stockholders already rich" instead of increasing the wages of the workers.

SLOW GAIN IN STEEL DEMAND

Inventory Replenishment Fails
To Bring In Forecasted
Amount Of Business

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21.—A slow gain in iron and steel demand, with inventory replenishment failing to bring in the forecasted amount of business and with tardy maturing of season requirements will be noted tomorrow by the Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade.

One of the most heartening developments of the week was a noticeable improvement in machine tool sales, particularly at New York, Cleveland and Milwaukee. The Automobile industry, among the larger outlets for iron and steel, continues to show moderate improvement in operations. All three of the Iron Age composite prices are unchanged with Finished Steel at 214c, a pound Pig Iron at $13.90 a ton and heavy melting scrap at $11.33 a ton.

Scorns Autos; Sticks To Oxen

(International News Service)

HOPKINTON, N. H., Jan. 21.—George E. Patch, farmer, would "rather have a one-legged ox than a dozen automobiles."

Proof of this assertion might be found at Patch's farm, where 13 yoke of oxen are employed to do various work. In the winter, Patch rents out three or four yoke to neighbors and keeps the others engaged in hauling cord wood from the woods.
